Saanich Voting Heavy

Esquimalt, Oak Bay Light

For Municipal Election results phone the Times, 2-3131, after 8 tonight.

An aroused public swarmed to the polls in Saanich today to settle the hottest election battle for reeveship that the municipality has experienced in many years.

A new record vote was indicated at noon. But in Esquimalt and Oak Bay only normal response was recorded.

Saanich deputy returning officer Gordon Hayward said, "voting has been heavier than we've ever seen it before."

He said balloting started slowly but picked up at 9 a.m. In other years the bulk of voters appeared in the afternoon.

Reeve Joseph Casey, Arthur Ash and George Clayton have been embroiled in civic differences before excited campaign audiences. The fight was heated by a pre-election disclosure of a $595,488 deficit in a long-term sewer building plan. Another big issue was lack of records in municipal gravel pit dealings.

TOP VICTORIA?

Due to the large number of polls in Saanich (there are 13) no total of persons who had voted at noon was available. There are 18,573 eligible voters. If, as is anticipated, a heavier-than-usual vote ensues, Saanich may even record a higher vote than Victoria did Thursday when 9,073 persons voted.

At Oak Bay at noon just six and one-half per cent of the eligible 6,800 voters has visited the polls, a scant 440. Returning officer A. D. Findlay had no comparison with earlier years but it is thought a normal vote was indicated. Oak Bay total votes are usually light. There is no vote for reeve, Reeve F. E. Norris having been returned last week by acclamation.

Esquimalt reported only 296 persons had cast ballots by noon—not quite 10 per cent of the municipality's 3,175 eligible voters.

This was roughly the same as the count at noon in the last reeveship election two years ago, returning officer James Eirik stated. Final vote in 1953 saw 52 per cent of the registered voters cast ballots. Reeve A. C. Wurtele was re-elected at that time by a final count of 877 compared with 666 to his only opponent, Andrew Whisker.

Montreal Rioters Wreck 236 Streetcars, Buses

Menzies Scores Decisive Win In Aussie Poll

Coolition Government Adds to Majority

MELBOURNE (CP)—Prime Minister Robert Menzies' right-wing coalition was returned to power tonight with a resounding election victory in the Australian House of Representatives.

When the vote counting stopped at midnight, the Liberal-Country party had 71 seats, a gain of seven; the Labor party, led by Herbert Evatt, had 43, there was one gain by an Independent and seven seats were doubtful.

Under Australia's preferential system of voting, complete results will not be known for days for the 122-seat House.

In the last Parliament of 121 members, the government had a seven-seat majority—64 to 57.

MAY RETAIN CONTROL

The result of the election for the Senate, also held today, was not clear but the Menzies landslide in the House indicated the Liberal-Country party coalition would probably retain control of the Senate.

It needed three of the five Senate seats in each state to hold a majority in the upper house.

A record 5,171,000 voters went to the polls in sweltering heat with temperatures in some parts of the country near 100.

"We have won a splendid victory," Menzies told a reporter. Evatt said the government's plan to "sneak back into power" at a premature election had succeeded—"temporarily."

He said an outstanding feature of the election was the tremendous aggregate vote for Labor, "much of which has been nullified by the manipulation of electoral boundaries which are operated in the interest of government parties."

Although Labor lost ground in Parliament, it polled a greater aggregate of votes.

Percentages were: Government parties 45.6 per cent; Labor 46.2 per cent; Anti-Communist Labor 5.7 per cent; others 2.5 per cent.

Soviet Backs Canada In UN 'Package Deal'

Seats for 18, Including Outer Mongolia, Held 'Only Way to End Deadlock'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Russia told the Security Council today that the only way to break the long UN membership deadlock is to accept a Canadian package deal which would bring 18 new countries into the world organization.

Soviet delegate Arkady Sobolev spoke as the 11-Nation Council faced a threat that Nationalist China would veto Outer Mongolia—one of the five Soviet satellites in the package.

"The Soviet Union," Sobolev said, "firmly and resolutely stands for the admission of all 18 states without any exception whatsoever. No other way out of this situation exists, nor can any be found."

Nationalist China's T. F. Tsiang spoke briefly, but failed to repeat his privately-made threat that he would veto Outer Mongolia, if necessary, to keep it out. He said his delegation was willing to co-operate with other delegations, within the limits of the UN charter, to break the membership deadlock.

The Soviet delegate formally proposed that the council take up the 18 applications in the order of their receipt. This meant that Albania and Outer Mongolia would be voted upon first.

Nationalist China previously announced it would demand priority for the non-Communist countries.

"If failure to act was unjustified in the past," he said, "still less is it justified now."

PARIS (Reuters)—Pierre Mendes-France today took a firm grip on the Radical Socialist party leadership after the expulsion Friday night of eight party members who refused to follow his orders.

Announcement of the expulsion signalled a victory for the former premier in a violent struggle for power between right and left-wing radicals on the eve of Jan. 2 French general election.

Mendes-France announced the expulsion at a meeting of the party executive committee, of which he is chairman. The reason he gave was that the men had refused orders to resign from the Rally of the Republican Left, a coordinating body of Radical and other centre-left political groups.

Mendes-France wanted his party to be free to appoint new members to the rally, whose Radical Socialist membership now is headed by his arch-opponent, caretaker Premier Edgar Faure.

Faure himself has already been expelled from the middle-of-the-road Radical Socialist party at Mendes-France's instigation for calling the January election in opposition to party sentiment.

Hume 'Confident'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Fred Hume said today he was confident Vancouver RCMP superintendent George Archer would become the city's next police chief.

"Our chances of making an arrangement are very good," Mr. Hume said. (See story, Page 2.)

Fare Hike Protest Leaves 40 Injured; 114 Face Charges

(BUP and AP Dispatches)

MONTREAL—The Montreal Transportation Commission today urged Municipal Judge Pascal Lachapelle to impose severe sentences on those convicted of wilful damage in Friday night's 12-hour transit riot in which 236 streetcars and buses were wrecked.

A veteran police officer said the hooliganism in which 40 persons were injured was the worst he had seen since the anti-Communist riots of 1917. The Maurice Richard hockey riots last March 17 were described as " tame" in comparison.

George Emery, transit commission lawyer, asked Judge Lachapelle to make an example of the hoodlums who took part in the protest against a 2½-cent fare increase. He said the maximum term for damaging railway property was 14 years in prison.

Emery said the riot cost the commission $102,000 in damaged property and loss of revenue.

A total of 153 persons were arrested and appeared in the crowded courtroom today to face charges ranging from assaulting police officers to failing to move when told to do so by police.

Altogether, 52 persons pleaded guilty and 48 others maintained their innocence. Fourteen juveniles were remanded to Social Welfare court. The rest were released when charges were dropped when it was found they had no connection with the riot.

The accused appeared one at a time in a procession that lasted 3½ hours.

500-Man Police Squad Poised

An uneasy quiet hung over Montreal today, as assistant police director Alfred Bolanger and 500 officers stood poised to move against any attempt to renew the destructive rampage.

A brief, unsuccessful attempt was made early today to revive the rioting.

An estimated 1,000,000 Montrealers were stranded without means of travelling from 10 p.m. until 4 a.m. today, when normal street-car and bus services were resumed.

It was shortly after the resumption of service that new violence flared. A gang of 25 youths and men, shouting protests against the increase in operating in gangs of 500, fought pitched battles with police in the streets, slashed powerlines, flattened bus tires and wrecked the inside of streetcars, leaving one of them burning. Disruption of the service was complete by 10 p.m., about five hours after student-leaders had attempted unsuccessfully to halt the demonstration.

TEMPERS BECOME FRAYED

Meany, NAM Man Agree to Disagree

NEW YORK (AP)—Business and labor leaders Friday swapped peace overtures but wound up bitterly feuding over union tactics in politics and bargaining.

George Meany, president of the newly-merged AFL-CIO, and Charles R. Sligh, Jr., executive committee chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers, split widely in their views. Both spoke to a crowded luncheon at the Waldorf Astoria ballroom.

Sligh questioned whether the new 16,000,000-member AFL-CIO would become "a ghost government" to control the country. He lashed at compulsory union membership arrangements, at irresponsible strikes, and at wage levels so high that products are "priced out of the market."

Meany, speaking first and extemporaneously, had extended an olive branch to business and said it was "silly" for labor and management to quarrel constantly when they had so much in common.

Sligh said he would be willing to meet with Meany at any time to try to "clear up some things" but "naturally we are not prepared to admit that all of our grievances are legitimate."

RIFT DEEPENS

The rift deepened shortly after Sligh finished his prepared speech. Reporters cornered the two together on the speakers' platform and it appeared for a time

Khrushchev Meddles in Kashmir Row

Says Disputed Area 'Part of India'

SRINAGAR, Kashmir (Reuters)—Nikita Khrushchev, Soviet Communist party secretary, today attacked Pakistan's alliances with the West and declared that the disputed territory of Kashmir is part of India.

Kashmir has been in dispute between India and Pakistan for eight years. It is temporarily partitioned along a cease-fire line pending a plebiscite.

Despite the fact the plebiscite has not yet been held, Khrushchev said in reply to a speech of welcome at a reception:

"The question about Kashmir as one of the states of the Republic of India has been decided by the people of Kashmir itself and that is a matter of the people itself."

Premier Bulganin, touring Kashmir with Khrushchev, in a speech Friday night spoke of Kashmir as "this northern part of India."

SAYS FACT WON'T LAST

Khrushchev today criticized Pakistan for joining the Western-backed Baghdad pact for Middle East defence and said:

"We are confident that this Baghdad pact will burst like a soap bubble and only unpleasant recollections of it will remain."

"We have never supported and we never shall support participants in the Baghdad pact."

The Baghdad defence treaty was signed this year by Britain, Turkey, Iraq, Iran and Pakistan.

Khrushchev said the Pakistan government had protested to the Soviet ambassador in Karachi against the visit of Marshal Bulganin and himself to Kashmir and also their proposed visit to Afghanistan.

WILL CHOOSE OWN FRIENDS

He added: "No one is going to tell us where we will go and what for and which kind of friends we will choose."

Khrushchev, who spoke for nearly an hour in Russian, said Russia has "very good friendly relations" with India, a young and growing state.

"If in the Republic of India we see our ally in the fight for peace, for the peaceful settlement of world problems, I regret that we cannot say the same about Pakistan."

'Scandalous' Lack of Training Rapped by Police Commissioner

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Brig. W. C. Murphy, recently appointed to the three-man Vancouver police commission, leveled a blistering attack yesterday at the lack of training for city police officers.

The scathing denunciation, in which Murphy termed lack of training a "scandal," came in the wake of the murder

Parley Here in '56 On Police Training

Uniform system of police training and advancement in B.C. will be discussed at a meeting of Greater Victoria police commissions, attorney-general's department and RCMP, probably early next year.

Equimult municipality, promoter of the standardization plan, favors the provincial government "taking the lead" in local police training, Reeve A. C. Wurtele said.

The reeve criticized the fact there is no set practice for police training schools. Equimult conducted its first school last summer under direction of former RCMP Inspector Richard Harvey, graduating nine constables in basic police work.

"It was possible that a RCMP superintendent would rise to constable first class without any form of training," said Mr. Wurtele.

A-G INTERESTED

Discussing the matter with Attorney-General Robert Bonner, the reeve found him interested in a plan. It was hoped to hold the meeting of representatives before the end of the year, but other government responsibilities interfered.

Certain problems would arise, Mr. Wurtele pointed out. For example, who would prepare a syllabus of training? Who would conduct the school? Would there be a standard book for police training?

VANCOUVER POLICE POST

Archer Acceptance Waits RCMP Okay

VANCOUVER (CP)—The RCMP superintendent asked to lead Vancouver's war against the underworld doubts he will be able to answer the call.

"The chances are 90 to 10 against my being able to accept the appointment," Superintendent George Archer said Friday night after he was asked to take over as Vancouver police chief.

The 58-year-old head of the Vancouver subdivision said he would communicate with senior RCMP officers at Ottawa before discussing the matter further.

"I have told the mayor I will discuss the offer with him when I have been advised of the reaction of my superiors in Ottawa," he said.

The 750-man Vancouver police force has been headed by acting chief Alan Rossiter since last July when a royal commission investigation of the department was ordered at the request of the Vancouver police commission.

Superintendent Archer said he would seek advice as to the "manner of my leaving the RCMP," whether by resignation or leave of absence.

Continental Can Chief Denies Hydro Interest

VANCOUVER (CP)—Frank A. Whittall, president of the Continental Can Co. of Canada, says his firm is "in no way connected with any venture to build a power dam along the Fraser River."

In an interview following his arrival from Montreal Friday, Mr. Whittall denied a report that his company was the principal backer of a $700,000,000 aluminum smelter and dam project in British Columbia.

The report, originated from Victoria earlier this week, said Continental was prepared to invest $200,000,000 in an aluminum smelter, probably at Squamish, and a further $500,000,000 in construction of a dam at Moran.

Claiming his firm was "very much concerned" with the possibility of construction of a dam on the Fraser, Mr. Whittall said: "If someone puts a dam on the Fraser, it is definitely going to be harmful to the salmon industry on both the river and in the Puget Sound area. We are opposed to such a project."

Early this week, Provincial Lands Minister R. E. Sommers confirmed a report that Moran Power Development Company had been granted a permit to survey a possible dam site at Moran, 135 miles northeast of Vancouver.

Moran Power Development was described as a subsidiary of Continental Can and was incorporated last July. Its three directors and shareholders are Hans A. Eggers, retiring president of Continental Can Inc. of New York; Douglas E. Andrews and A. Hans Swinton, Vancouver law partners.

"Mr. Eggers retires from Continental Can this January," said Mr. Whittall. "and someone may have confused his connection with our company. This may be some private venture of his own, but it is in no way connected with our company."

Mental Test Ordered In Plane-Bomb Trial

DENVER (UP)—John Gilbert Graham, 23, pleaded innocent by reason of insanity Friday to the charge that he murdered his mother by time-bombing the airliner in which 44 persons were killed.

District Judge Edward J. Keating ordered the young defendant to the Colorado Psychopathic hospital in Denver for 30 days' observation and continued the case until Jan. 9, when he will hear the hospital report. Keating said he expected to set a date for the sanity trial after the Jan. 9 report.

Graham will stand trial for murder if the sanity trial discloses he was sane at the time of the alleged murder.

Graham's mother, Mrs. Daisie King, died when the United Air Lines plane exploded and crashed near Longmont, Colo., Nov. 1. Everyone aboard was killed.

Reward For Killers Now $6,000

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 33-year-old Vancouver salesman and a 22-year-old logger were still held in the slaying of Constable Gordon Sinclair Wednesday night.

A 19-year-old girl and a 17-year-old youth, also picked up a few hours after the policeman was shot, were released earlier in the day.

Police commissioners voted Friday to ask city council to post a $5,000 reward for information leading to conviction of the killers.

In addition, a personal reward offer of $1,000 has been made by Mayor Hume.

Donations to a fund established to aid the dead officer's family were still coming in but totals were not released.

Her brother, John, 63, later was found on his farm yard where he had lain all night in the severe weather after suffering a stroke. He is in hospital in serious condition.

Exploding Jet Hits Hospital, 1 Dead, 7 Hurt

SHEFFIELD, Eng. (UP)—U.S. Air Force officials today opened an investigation into the crash of an American jet fighter plane which plowed through the roof of a crowded hospital near Sheffield Friday night with its wingloads of ammunition exploding.

A 46-year-old mother of five children was killed when the F-84F Thunderstreak skimmed the glass roof of a ward in the Lodge Moor Hospital, tore along a glass-covered corridor into another ward and blew up on a lawn outside. Seven other persons, including three children were injured.

The pilot, Lt. Roy Evans, 24, Pulaski, Tenn., bailed out before the crash and parachuted safely from 35,000 feet. He was hospitalized for "observation," and air force officials said he would be questioned as soon as his condition permits.

Evans radioed his base at Sculthorpe shortly before the crash that his engine was afire and he was trying to crash-land.

A few minutes later he sent a message saying he was forced to bail out.

The pilotless plane crashed into the hospital roof like a blazing meteor. Ammunition stored in the wings exploded as it smashed through the crowded wards. The explosions and the whine of ricocheting bullets mingled with the terrified screams of patients and nurses.

The dead woman was Mrs. Elsie Murdock, who was scheduled to be released from the hospital in three days.

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION?

By AB KENT and IRVING STRICKLAND

What did you think of the acting in the Memorial Arena production of "Passion Play?"

Mrs. Gilmour Rev. Bailey

Cotswold, housewife: "I felt the lighting, costumes, and setting were excellent, but generally the acting was overdone. I much preferred the last part where there were no spoken lines. It was much more reverent. The acting in that part was very good."

Rev. Thomas Bailey, minister, St. Barnabas' Church: "Critics made the mistake of judging the play as a theatrical performance. I was expecting to criticize when I went to see it, but instead I was moved. It was simple without being naive, and at the same time profound. The presentation was devout; an act of worship. Actors not only brought out the richness of the story but the meaning."

Rev. James Walter Luney

Rev. F. E. H. James, minister Metropolitan United Church: "On the whole, acting was of a high order. The supreme person of the Christ was done with a dignity which was commendable. Judas did his part with dramatic effectiveness and the Virgin Mary gave an impression of goodness and purity which revealed her as a woman of holiness. The whole presentation was a treat and should have been seen by the entire community."

Walter Luney, 3100 Uplands, retired: "The professional actors were good. The man who took the part of Judas, and the man who played Christ were somewhat weak, as was the mob scene, but I thought the best scene was extremely well done—the last supper."

Frank Briers Dr. Marshall

Frank Briers, fire chief: "The acting was marvelous. And I thought the scenery was good. I would recommend it for anyone to see, including children. The type of acting portrayed in such a production is not easy. To me, it was an inspiration."

Dr. W. Douglas Marshall, 3207 Douglas, obstetrician: "The actor that impressed me most was the man who played Judas. I think Josef Meier is probably the finest actor in his role of Christ in the world. It was certainly an emotional experience: a new one for me. I would recommend the play, but not for children."

Noted Newsman Dies in Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—Irene Mason, managing editor of Le Soleil and L'Evenement-Journal, died Friday after a lengthy illness. He was 59.

One of the most popular figures in Canadian newspaper circles, he was a past president of the Canadian Managing Editors' Conference, a post he held for two years.

He had been with Le Soleil, Ltee., publishers of the two Quebec dailies, for 27 years.

IRWIN SHUNS LAURIER BUST

A bust of Sir Wilfrid Laurier seems doomed to spend the years gathering dust in the provincial archives, because Speaker of the House Thomas Irwin doesn't want "that thing" returned to his chambers.

The bust held down a place of honor in the Speaker's rooms under a former Liberal administration, but when Social Credit and Mr. Irwin took over, it was tossed to archives' officials.

Since that time, it has rested uneasily between two dress forms (both of them molded on very large ladies) in a dim attic.

This week, Premier Bennett was told of this "shocking" dishonor, and he ordered "that great Canadian" restored to a place of prominence.

WHAT TO DO?

Archivist Willard Ireland went to the Speaker. "What shall I do with it?" he asked.

"I will not have that thing in my office," the Speaker replied. "Because he is a political prime minister, I will not have anything in that office that is indicative of party politics."

Archives' officials are still wondering where Sir Wilfrid can find a resting place in a place of honor.

British Comet May Fly Over City Dec. 17

Pilot Replies To Jaycee Bid

Capt. John "Catseyes" Cunningham, pilot of Britain's newest de Havilland Comet, told Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce late Friday he may be able to fly the Comet over Victoria on Dec. 17.

In answer to a cabled invitation from Stickney Harris, Jaycee president, Cunningham replied:

"Much appreciate your cable and congratulations. Unable to fly over Victoria en route from Honolulu to Vancouver since necessary demonstrate aircraft on normal airways.

"Will consider on arrival Vancouver whether feasible to fly over during a demonstration flight on day following."

The jet transport is due to leave Honolulu Dec. 16 and would reach Vancouver the same day, flying at an average speed of 500 miles an hour.

Leaving Sydney, Australia, next Tuesday, the Comet is due in Honolulu the same day. It is attempting a Pacific record in elapsed time.

According to schedule, the Comet will first fly south to Auckland, New Zealand, from Sydney, requiring three hours 10 minutes for the flight. It leaves Auckland at 3 p.m. for Fiji, where the crew will rest overnight.

At 7 a.m. Wednesday (Fiji time) the silver and blue transport will fly north and east and cross the international dateline, getting back to Tuesday.

It is due in Honolulu at 3:15 p.m.

Engagement rings clutched firmly in their hands, Billy Chow, 22 (left), and Jim Eng, 23, both of Toronto, leave Vancouver on a 7,000-mile air trip to Hong Kong on a wife hunt. Airline says it carries three or four wife-hunters each trip.

Canadian Tour Proposed For Princess

LONDON (CP)—The Daily Telegraph says there is a "suggestion" that Princess Margaret should go to Canada next June.

The occasion would be the maiden voyage of "her own" ship, the Cunard liner Carinthia. The princess is to perform the naming ceremony when the 20,000-ton ship is launched at Glasgow next Wednesday.

Princess Margaret has never visited Canada. She is said privately to have expressed the desire to do so but a royal visit is contingent on many factors.

The Carinthia is the third ship in the Cunard line's new Canadian service passenger fleet. The Saxonia was launched by Lady Churchill Feb. 17, 1954, and the Ivernia by Mrs. C. D. Howe, wife of the Canadian trade minister, Dec. 14, 1954.

High Schools' Choir Concert Earns $125 for Sixty-Up Club

A well-balanced and enjoyable program of carols featuring glee clubs and choirs from five city high schools were heard in Metropolitan United Church Friday in the ninth annual Christmas Carol Festival.

The festival was sponsored by the Victoria Lions' Club, and $135 was turned over to the "Sixty-Up Club," a Lions' endeavor.

Heard in the program were the Lansdowne Junior Boys' Choir, Oak Bay Junior High School Glee Club, Victoria High School Girls' Choir, Mount View High School Glee Club, and Esquimalt High School Girls' and Senior Glee Club.

The audience took part in singing of many of the ageless hymns. Musical arrangements were by Harry J. Bigsby. Frank Tupman was conductor and H. C. Palmer, organist.

Applause for the performance was sustained.

New School For Retarded Wins Support

Executive director of the Vancouver Association for Retarded Children, Mrs. Leola B. Purdy, has endorsed aim of the Greater Victoria Retarded Children's Association to start a day and residential school here.

Mrs. Purdy, also a director of the B.C. Association, said the Vancouver school for retarded youngsters handles ages from five to 23, and at present there was a waiting list of 30.

Checks for $235 were presented the Victoria group, among them one for $100 from Happy Valley Lodge No. 5, Royal Antediluvian Order of Buffaloes, and $10 from the ladies' auxiliary of Local 109A, Street Railwaymen's Union.

A spokesman for the Family and Children's Service made a plea for foster homes for children now under FCS care.

SISTERS, 103 AND 100, WALK TO CHURCH HONOR

KIDDERMINSTER, Eng. (CP)—Miss Jane Badland, 103, will take her "kid sister," Caroline, to church Sunday for a special service—Caroline's 100th birthday.

The sisters have been walking the one mile between home and the Unitarian Church regularly for years.

Local dignitaries will commemorate Jane's 56 years as Sunday school superintendent and Caroline's 53 years as organist by unveiling two plaques at the church entrance.

Bootleggers Girl, 13, Expert on Temperance

TORONTO (CP)—A bootlegger's daughter won an anti-liquor essay contest here.

The 13-year-old girl, the department of welfare says in a report, won top honors in a school essay contest dealing with the effect on the family when alcohol is consumed in the home.

Noting that the mother was proud of her daughter's work, the department said she twice was convicted of bootlegging and fined a total of $600.

"The police have eased up since she stopped selling to children," the report added.

Word of the girl's work got out when a welfare department inspector investigated the family after the mother applied for assistance. She claimed her husband had deserted her.

The inspector said local churches have copies of the essay and are using it for temperance purposes.

God healed him

"I DRESSED HIS WOUNDS, and God healed him," was the modest statement of the great French physician, Paré. It was he who first insisted on cleanliness and fresh air for his patients.

These things now are accepted as the minimum essentials for health, although in the sixteenth century they were revolutionary. Medical science has traveled a long road since the days of Paré. Some diseases have been eliminated, others drastically curtailed. Given full co-operation, physicians could eradicate many of the infectious diseases still rampant today. It is up to you to take advantage of the knowledge your physician possesses.

Let's Find Out About Our Fish

LANDS AND FORESTS MINISTER Robert Sommers, speaking for the Provincial Government on the suggested gigantic Moran dam on the Fraser, says: "We have no intention of letting anyone go on that river if it's going to have a detrimental effect on the salmon."

The minister deserves full marks for the position he has announced. The statement is reassuring. But is it reassuring enough?

The question rises inevitably from the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission submission presented by Senator Thomas Reid to Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, chairman of the Canadian Section, International Joint Commission, earlier this year.

"The statement has been made," the senator said, "that dams up to 200 feet in height would not be detrimental to the salmon resources of the Fraser. Our data do not bear out this latter conclusion and, in fact, are so contrary to it that we gratefully welcome this opportunity of advising you of our preliminary conclusions. We are concerned first and most seriously with the effect of any dam, regardless of its height, on the upstream movement of mature sock-eye."

Dams in the river impede the progress of salmon to the spawning grounds. If they are delayed as much as four days in their drive from the sea to the place where they deposit their eggs, the result can be serious. Some die before reaching natal streams. Others, interrupted in the rhythm of their spawning processes, fail to make their egg deposits as they should. When delay is longer than four days, the mortality rate to the run of fish is that much greater.

The salmon fisheries commission is also concerned with the survival of small fish moving downstream to salt water and encountering dams, power plants and their penstocks on the way.

Once the small fish are drawn into a penstock, under the pressure exerted by the plunge of water it contains, they seldom survive. Emerging into water of vastly less pressure, they suffer internal ruptures almost always fatal.

Science has been engaged in research work to divert fingerlings from the penstocks. Recent experiments in Britain indicate the partial success of electric currents discharged into the water to discourage the approach of small fish. But the over-all results of experiments to date are not convincing—certainly not to the salmon fisheries commission.

For this and for another vastly important reason the authorities should focus their eyes on the Columbia River. It stands as a classical example of how salmon fisheries can be gravely injured by dams in a river furnishing access to spawning grounds.

Since it is no longer a vital factor in the fisheries picture, its hydro potentials surely should be exploited to the limit before any chance is taken with the Fraser—the greatest of our salmon rivers. Old arguments over the difficulties of carrying power from Columbia generating sources to industrial sites have been answered to a very considerable degree by two developments—the improvement of transmission equipment and the growth of a grid system which could supply power where it is required with a compensating amount coming from the Columbia.

What applies to the survival of the rich Fraser River salmon fisheries, applies also in reduced scale to the proposed development of the Nass and to a much lesser degree to the other power plan envisioned for the Elsie, Great Central and Sprout Lakes complex leading into the Somass River.

It is comforting to hear Government spokesmen stand firmly for the protection of the salmon industry on our rivers. It will be a great deal more comforting when the devices of protection have proved their efficiency. The public should be kept thoroughly informed on the question.

Marching Well in the Van

WITH LITTLE FANFARE CANADA is making giant strides into the new atomic age. The reactor now under construction at Chalk River will be, according to scientists, "the best nuclear test facility in existence in the free world."

What this means in terms of benefit to mankind cannot yet be fully assessed. Long after the reactor goes into operation next June new uses will be found, new processes developed, new gains made in wrestling the secret of the atom from nature. The new unit will be five times as powerful as the old reactor whose use blazed trails in the atomic field. With more steel in it, for shielding, than one of the Canadian Navy's escort destroyers, the structure is housed in a building 145 feet high. From it will come radioactive materials for medical research and treatment, for agriculture, for industry. With it can be performed tests and research that should vastly extend the horizon of atomic knowledge. Particularly in the realm of industrial power the reactor will open new doors.

At a cost of $30 millions the unit may seem to be an expensive luxury. But from the point of view of need, and possible results in this atomic age, it represents a necessary national investment.

Mush Ice and the Ehrenburg Thaw

MR. ERNEST S. PISKO HAS REVIEWED Ilya Ehrenburg's new book, "The Thaw," for the Christian Science Monitor and apparently considers the Russian novelist's emphasis on spiritual and individual values about as trustworthy as mush ice.

In the reviewer's opinion, Mr. Ehrenburg is not so much a novelist as a pamphleteer of unquestionable talent. As a pamphleteer he has an over-keen sensitivity to atmospheric changes and the trend of underground currents.

In other words, Mr. Pisko seems to be saying that "The Thaw" is significant as a criticism, in Russia, of the Stalin era's grip of steel.

"It must have taken more than ordinary courage," says Mr. Pisko, "for a Soviet citizen to write 'there were always good and bad people' and thereby deny that a person's behavior is exclusively determined by economic factors, or to charge 'that one half our (Soviet) house is a slum' and to quote Maxim Gorki's demand for 'Soviet humanism,' meaning more respect for the individual."

"Actually," he continues, "all of 'The Thaw' is a plea for recognizing, if not the supremacy, then at least the equality of spiritual needs and human consideration."

When a man of Ilya Ehrenburg's position in the Soviet literary hierarchy produces such a document, a vast change in Soviet thinking is indicated.

But the point is rendered inconclusive by Mr. Pisko's further comment, "Yet that does not mean that Mr. Ehrenburg is right and that a real thaw has set in, let alone that it will continue and penetrate the deep layer of permafrost."

Mr. Ehrenburg could be looking into the pool of Russian sentiment and finding his vision obscured by the mushiness of the intervening layer of ice.

Out of the Mouths of Babes and Scholars

From The Times (London)

A DON ON Oxford station, meeting a colleague who had just come up from foggy London, asked him if the metropolis had been "caliginous." The answer was that it had been—but not "inspired."

A learned man from Birmingham has just found that the awe with which some of us might have overheard that exchange of adjectives is unlikely to be shared by the rising generation in the five to six age bracket. They, between them, have it seems, some 4,000 words to play with.

For them a twist of the old proverb into "even a quern will turn" makes sense. But the surprised admiration, with which they were observed by the experts, will not be shared by all of us.

"Abracadabra," sounds a mouthful, but it is common form in any nursery where the old stories are told, and "heliocopter" is a word that contemporary little boys learn about as soon as they can walk. (Precise pronunciation, pedantic distribution of syllables, is another matter.)

Stimulated by these fluent babies, grown-ups may well ask themselves how many words they know. They are told that the Oxford English Dictionary challenges them with some 414,825 words, 500,000 definitions, and 1,827,306 illustrative quotations.

At the other end of the scale, they can cheer themselves up with the thought that the New Testament in Basic English allows itself a licence of a mere 150 words above its standard ration of 850. Where, between these extremes, do we come?

The answer lies shrouded in "inspired" obscurity. If that be a legitimate use of the word. But is it? When we use it with "gloom" we are safe, but, even encouraged, as we are encouraged, by Dr. Murray, to use it with "honey," we grow bashful.

Nor is it encouraging, when faced by that formidable four hundred thousand words, to be reminded that English never stands still.

CANDIDATE'S THANKS

At this time I wish to express my heartfelt thanks to those who have supported me and to those who have disagreed with me in the civic elections, as my platform was governed by the following quotation from Benjamin Franklin:

"We must not in the course of public life, expect immediate approbation or immediate grateful acknowledgement of our services. But let us persevere through abuse and even injury, the internal satisfaction that a good conscience should always be present and that time and justice in the minds of the people shall not be prejudiced against me."

My interest in public affairs especially for the betterment of the taxpayers and the city at large will always be paramount in my humble way.

POLITICAL SLAMS

It becomes a man holding the high office of premier of this great province to insult and belittle prominent members of the federal cabinet. The only time these members have to acquaint themselves with the needs of all parts of Canada is between sessions, and Premier Bennett should welcome and encourage these members. But, no, he seems to delight in making sarcastic remarks. In this way he hopes to gain support for himself and his party. I notice that the three cabinet members referred to by the premier as "berry picker politicians" did not stop to reply to his undignified and uncalled-for slams.

VICTORIA.

MAINLAND COMPLAINT

The Mr. Justice Cline Report fairly describes the filthy conditions on some farms shipping milk to Vancouver and the excellent conditions existing on other farms but he only briefly refers to the proven bribery and corruption by some Vancouver distributors of milk.

These two deplorable things have been the props to support the milk racket in Vancouver for over 25 years. Always backing the distributors, the press from this report, have featured only the filthy farms and did not refer to the distribution bribery and corruption at consumer and producer expense, which some of their writers heard and saw recorded by the court reporters.

For over 30 years, with many other producers, I have shipped safe quality milk from clean cows and a clean barn always under Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture and Vancouver City regulations.

From the books of evidence, please tell our city customers about the second thing, namely the corrupt and deplorable condition shown up in the distribution of milk.

CASE DISMISSED

A surprise indeed was your editorial in last Monday's Times, wherein you advised the voters to replace Mayor Harrison with Mr. Scurrah.

I was amazed at your boldness to present the same stand taken by your publisher, Stuart Keate, in 1953 at almost the same time before election day.

For in his column, "All Things Considered," of Dec. 8, 1953, Mr. Keate, in nearly the same words as yours, asked for the defeat of Mr. Harrison. (Mr. Scurrah was one of the candidates for the mayoralty then as this year.) In some respects, the editors' present temerity is to be admired, for not often can one shake off such a stinging rebuff as that taken by Mr. Keate in Mr. Harrison's decisive victory in 1953.

May I add that it is rare indeed when a reader of the Times has voiced disapproval of Mr. Harrison's mayoral abilities. Disapproval has come almost entirely from Times' reporters and editors. I challenge you to disprove this.

JUST HAPPENED?

I would like to ask Candid a relevant question, as he apparently regards himself as an authority on Rationalism. He scoffs at the idea of a Creator, therefore should be able to interpret the laws of cause and effect, which operate throughout the universe.

As an example, I suggest that he give an explanation of his own body. He knows that his heart pumps blood through his veins, whether awake or asleep. He knows that his lungs provide the air he breathes. He knows that the kidneys, liver and all the other organs do their work—but he does not know why they function, or how they function.

If he is in good health he does not even realize that he possesses those organs, because they are so perfectly arranged and operate with a precision that is beyond calculation.

I have alluded specifically to Candid's physical body because it is his individual part of the whole, but I also ask him to explain the difference between body and soul—and if he really thinks that, as a complex human being he just happened.

LOOSE ENDS

A BACKWARD, unprogressive and anti-social gentleman named Mr. C. E. L'Ami has written, in The Winnipeg Free Press, a shocking complaint against Canadian progress. If you had not seen it in cold print you could hardly believe that such notions are still harbored among an enlightened people.

Still, Mr. L'Ami's hopeless cry of despair should be examined dispassionately and answered point by point, lest this sort of thing spread and undermine the faith of the Canadian people.

The Winnipeg iconoclast is alarmed, poor fellow, by the growth of Canadian cities which, he says, "seem to make it a sort of article of faith that they must keep on growing day after day and year after year, to all eternity, until not a blade of grass or a stretch of wood or meadow is left unutilized or unbuilt upon in all this vast Dominion."

AND what is the end of progress? Mr. L'Ami points to New York as the final outcome and concerning New York he quotes an eminent American writer, Mr. Eric Sevareid, who apparently is another enemy of progress.

Mr. Sevareid, benighted man, is angered because Grand Central Station is to be pulled down and replaced by the tallest building in the world... "an office building so commuters can step from air-conditioned train, and be rushed underground to be whisked up to their offices in air-conditioned elevators, unblemished by a single touch of unpasteurized rain or the unconditional snow."

When this improvement is complete, says Mr. Sevareid, Park Avenue, stretching north from Grand Central, will also be transformed by the removal of its trees, boulevard, strollers and dogs. What will be left? Only, says Mr. Sevareid, the ulcer, the only living thing that grows on glass and metal.

At this point Mr. Sevareid intends to abandon progress altogether. "I'm going," he says, "home to the past. If this be progress, I want my decadence back."

Alas, where can he find the past? How can he possibly get his decadence back? The past has been abolished by a progressive society. Decadence has been outlawed. Mr. L'Ami and Mr. Sevareid comprise a minority of two in a continent of some two hundred millions. By simple mathematics this pair of reactionaries are clearly wrong.

IN ANY case, an enlightened North American public will not listen to them. The public knows progress when it sees it. And progress, as all North Americans except Messrs. L'Ami and Sevareid realize, consists of numbers. The more numbers the more progress—that's just plain arithmetic, plain enough, indeed, for a child in the first grade.

In Canada we are making highly satisfactory progress, not perhaps as much as the opposition parties in Parliament would like and will certainly promise at the next election, but enough to satisfy any reasonable man. Every city is growing, every town is becoming a city, and every village a town.

Why, nearly four million people, at last reckoning, must now live in Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto and Montreal, about a quarter of the nation's population. If that isn't progress, I wish Mr. L'Ami would tell us what is.

THIS gentleman, it turns out, is alarmed, if you please, merely because some unsettled and underprivileged suburb of Winnipeg called St. James is about to feel the touch of progress. Its trees are to be cut down, its empires filled with streets of houses, its whole being civilized. Strangely enough, this splendid improvement strikes Mr. L'Ami as deplorable, almost unnatural. His reflections on this score, though obviously perverse, unreasonable and chuckle-headed, are worth noting as a curiosity.

"CURIOUS," he writes, "it is to think that the minds of the adventurous immigrant peoples of this pioneer country should in so short a time have undergone so complete a change. For even up to the turn of the century the essential aim of the outflowing swarm of Europeans who stalked with seven-league boots across these prairies, was escape from brick and stone and crowded, confining communities in the Old World... And yet within half a century the room-seeking immigrants have flooded back into crowded urban communities."

This seems to me an unwarranted reflection on the intelligence of the immigrants. Of course they know what is good for them. Does Mr. L'Ami imagine that these people are less intelligent than native Canadians? Would he deny them the advantages of progress? Would he selfishly consign them to the barbarous open spaces while city dwellers like him hoard and monopolize all the better things of civilization?

BUT these questions are not confined to Winnipeg. Every Canadian city must face and answer them and every city may harbor dangerous characters like Messrs. L'Ami and Sevareid, who are secretly conspiring against progress and sabotaging civilization itself.

I dare say we have persons of that sort right here around us but I doubt the wisdom of locking them up in solitary confinement. It really isn't necessary. Their voices are drowned by the many sounds of progress and in any case they will soon be securely buried under the concrete.

GROWLS AMONGST THE GARLANDS

Soviet Diplomats Take the Southern Tour

THE current visit of Soviet Premier Khrushchev to India and Burma may be viewed as the latest extension of a communist Asian program that began several years ago.

It is a new phase of the program to be sure—it substitutes smiles, promises and trade agreements for guns and insurrection. But it is nevertheless an integral part of the communist urge for political expansion, and it may prove all the more dangerous for its suavity.

It is difficult to assess just how closely Communist Chinese and Russian policies harmonize. It has been suggested that something went wrong in the arrangements between Peking and Moscow during the Korean War—that the U.S.S.R. was not prepared to back China to the extent the latter may have wished. But there can be no doubt that the goal of universal communism is common to both countries.

In any case, Korea demonstrated to the communists that the West would stand only so much in the way of aggression. The next step, in Indo-China, was not so obvious.

Colonial Struggle

There was outside communist aid to the Viet Minh, of course, but the struggle was more closely identified with nationalism and French colonial policy. It was not the black and white proposition presented in Korea.

Indo-China's problem is not yet solved by any means. But the military phase appears over. The threats against Thailand did not mature. And it may well be that when Red Chinese Premier Chou En Lai went to Bandung last April and announced to the Afro-Asian conference that he had no military aims against anyone, he was more or less sincere. Since then the communist accent has been on friendly visits, camaraderie and peaceful penetration. The Bulgani-Khrushchev tour brings the program up to date and achieves a new peak.

While this sort of activity—and it is being extended to the Middle East and Africa as well as Asia—constitutes a threat to Western interests, it is not to be supposed that it is proceeding without fumbles or hitches.

Several nations at the Bandung conference, for instance, spoke forcefully and critically of Red China's actions in Asia. And the behaviour of Mr. Khrushchev in India has resulted in some unexpected repercussions.

India is a pacifist country, led by a premier whose abhorrence of nuclear weapons has frequently been expressed. It was in such a setting that Mr. Khrushchev chose to announce that Russia had detonated a new type of super-hydrogen bomb, and to warn the West belligerently that no nation had better play any aggressive tricks against the Soviet Union.

That these sentiments were announced while the tourists were visiting a religious shrine could make them no less unpalatable to Mr. Khrushchev's hosts.

Again, in Burma, the Soviet visitors snarled that the Western democracies had built up Adolf Hitler so that in time he could turn against the U.S.S.R. and defeat it. The tinkling of the temple bells could not drown out so blatant a falsehood.

It could not have gone down well with the Burmese leaders who must be well versed in British history and the West's part in the years preceding the Second World War.

The visits were not designed to be compounded entirely of flower garlands and invective. The Russians left Burma with some effective diplomatic work done, particularly an economic pact which provides for Soviet assistance to Burmese agriculture, irrigation works and new industrial development.

But the thought of all those millions of people—the "masses" with which the communist dialectic is chiefly concerned—must stir a continuing hunger in the Moscow bosses, a gnawing desire to press still more docile millions into the regimented ranks.

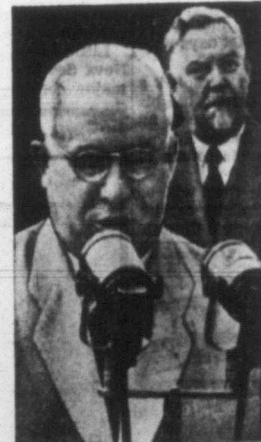

Soviet leaders on appropriate occasions refer to the U.S.S.R. as an Asiatic country. By such a description they hope to prove the unity of their interests with those of the rest of the continent. Equally, they like to denounce Western colonialism and thereby rouse Asian resentments against past wrongs.

What they do not explain is that Western colonialism among the colored races is now extinct or in its final stages, while Soviet "colonialism" among the white nations of eastern Europe is in full flower.

That Russia's imperial advances into Europe might some day be duplicated in the south and southeast of Asia will not, of course, be mentioned by Mr. Khrushchev. As yet, such a development must be merely a dim, far-distant hope in the Kremlin.

But the thought of all those millions of people—the "masses" with which the communist dialectic is chiefly concerned—must stir a continuing hunger in the Moscow bosses, a gnawing desire to press still more docile millions into the regimented ranks.

KHRUSHCHEV and BULGANIN

Best Answer to Soviet

UNITED NATIONS—Surely, the answer to the way in which Messrs. Bulganin and Khrushchev are damning the Western Powers as nasty old colonialists is to be found in the Fourth (Trusteeship) Committee here where the British are offering to give up their trusteeship territory of Togoland in West Africa.

This is a much better rejoinder than all the indignant cries of "stuff and nonsense" heard in London recently; it is the only reply, yet little if anything has been made of it.

The British want their part of Togoland—there is a French part too which complicates this issue—to join the Gold Coast which is being granted independence. They are insistent on this as the two adjoin and have been administered by them as one unit for more than 35 years.

Henry Hopkinson of the United Kingdom made this clear in the committee. However, he did say that his government accepted the recommendation of a United Nations mission which visited Togoland recently that there should be a plebiscite on this question.

At the end of the First World War, Togoland, which was a German colony, was split in two between the conquerors, the British and the French. As there was a new morality at the time, they held them under mandates of the League of Nations.

When the Second World War ended, the mandated territories were taken over by the United Nations, only the name changed to—trusteeship territories. So, the division of trusteeship territories. So, the division of Togoland continued, and this is the problem as far as the British offer is concerned.

For, split in two as their country was split in two was the main tribe, the Ewes (pronounced "Effies" and not like sheep). On one side of this artificial dividing line, the members were brought up like good British subjects to speak English, and, on the other side, they were brought up like French subjects to speak French.

In these two languages, the Ewe petitioners addressed the committee here, and it was strange to see these dark men in their swirling cloaks of many colors, listening intently on their earphones to the simultaneous interpretation of what their blood brothers, the fellow members of their tribe, were saying.

Naturally, the Ewes want to be united, but it was obvious from what the petitioners said, that they did not want this unification to stand in the way of part of the tribe gaining its freedom. The French have made no similar offer to the British.

From Canada's point of view, the British offer is welcomed, for we have always said that we are in favor of progressive steps toward the realization of self-government and independence. Furthermore, we have fairly close ties with the area, for Canadians are building a huge hydro-electric project on the Volta River, whose delta is on the border of the Gold Coast and Togoland.

In fact, Ottawa is considering appointing a resident representative in the area. When the Gold Coast plus British Togoland are granted independence, there may be a "membership problem" in the Commonwealth as the race-conscious South Africans may object to this black state being admitted. Such a problem is for the future.

Meanwhile, the British offer of freedom is the only way to answer the Russian leaders who are having a fine old time reminding the Indians and the Burmese of their unhappy colonial past, blowing on the embers of anti-Western feeling which, unfortunately, are still alive.

It is a pity that this should be a unique offer; it is the first time that one of the so-called administering powers has announced that it is ready to give up a trusteeship territory.

If others, and particularly the French, were to follow the British lead, then Messrs. Bulganin and Khrushchev would not be so eager to talk about the Western powers "sitting on the necks" of the colonial peoples; at least, they would not find such an attentive and appreciative audience for such remarks.

LONDON LETTER

Window Cleaner Worries

LONDON—A man who is connected with the upkeep of the Empire State Buildings in New York is visiting these parts and he has been telling people here some interesting things about it. What I found most interesting was what he said about the problems of the window cleaners. Apparently they don't worry about falling to their death from, say, the sixtieth floor or the ninety-eighth. In any building, if you fall from the fifth story or above, you've had it, so it doesn't make any difference if you're dozens of stories higher.

What they do worry about is being knocked off a window ledge by a suicide hurtling down from above. One of the veteran window cleaners was breaking in a new man and, as they worked together at adjoining windows, he did his best to assure him that there was really nothing to get concerned about. "But just then someone who had decided to end it all came floating down between them and the new cleaner hastily went indoors and quit."

The Empire State's window cleaners also have a dread of being blown off the building by a high wind—it can get very breezy up there. And biggest worry of all is office workers going home for the day, locking up and marooning the cleaner out on the ledge. It is too risky to kick the glass because he might sever an artery, yet if he stays out there all winter he is likely to freeze to death. A harrowing dilemma.

These comments on the worries of window cleaners set me thinking about the first thing in my life I remember. We all experience something at a tender age which sticks in the mind. Mine concerned a window cleaner.

It was in 1918 and I was living with my mother and sister in Wellington, New Zealand. My father was serving overseas. We lived in an hotel overlooking the harbor. The man who cleaned the hotel's windows and those of neighboring buildings was young and people wondered why he wasn't overseas in uniform. He always said he had a disability that ruled out his being in the services, but he seemed agile enough at his work.

The rumor soon got around that he was that awful thing—a dodger. I forget whether that term was used in the recent war but it was what they called him in those days. He had dodged out of going to the war and, as was the custom then, got his fair share of feathers in the mail.

One day, when the war had just ended, I saw him on top of his ladder cleaning the glass front of the clock above the shelter at the streetcar terminus just outside the hotel. A liner was entering the harbor and I could see that its decks were crowded with soldiers returning from the war.

Suddenly every vessel in the harbor started to blast with its hooter as a welcome to the home-coming troops. The window cleaner, who hadn't noticed the liner, turned around to see what the commotion was about. He missed his footing on the ladder and crashed down onto the sidewalk. We learned later in the day that he had died of a fractured skull.

I always remembered how ironic it was that he had met his death on the day all these men had come home safely from the war he had dodged.

CHRIST CHURCH BELLS RING FOR CONTINENT

The bells from Christ Church Cathedral will ring out greetings to the North American Continent on New Year's Day via an NBC-TV network.

The Victoria telecast will be part of a "World-Wide" program featuring Dave Garroway. It will be seen here on Channel 4 from 1 to 2.30 p.m. New Year's Day.

Greetings from this city and other North American centres will be carried on the coast-to-coast network.

Crews from the American network have already set up microphone equipment on the cathedral building and preliminary tests between here and Seattle are being made.

Upper Fraser Lands Placed on Reserve

Provincial cabinet Friday placed a land and mineral reserve on land adjoining the upper Fraser River and its tributaries.

The reserve follows the dislocation last week that Moran Development Co. is conducting engineering studies on a proposed $300,000,000 hydro-electric project above Lillooet.

Government officials said the reserve, on all Crown land below a 1,600-foot contour, is designed to prevent land speculation. Reserve also was applied under the Mineral Act, and the Placer Mining Act.

Moran officials are now discussing the project with fisheries interests. The firm claims it can construct a 700-foot high dam without injuring the salmon run.

Earl Attlee Selects Simple Title

LONDON (AP) — Clement Attlee who was elevated to the House of Lords after resigning as Labor party leader will take the simple title of "Earl Attlee," his wife said Friday night.

The former prime minister quietly left the House of Commons two days ago after serving there for 33 years. He was Labor party leader for 20 years.

Attlee's son will become Viscount Prestwood of Walthamstow. Mrs. Attlee, now Countess Attlee, said the Queen's consent has been given and "it has all gone through."

Queen Elizabeth conferred an earldom on Attlee almost immediately after he announced his resignation from the Commons. It is traditional to grant this honor to a former prime minister who desires it.

Hydro Ban for Fraser Urged by Sen. Reid

VANCOUVER (CP) — The fishing industry was warned Friday by Senator Thomas Reid of New Westminster, B.C., to reduce the size of its Fraser river fleets.

He appealed in a speech for a cutback in fishing operations when he spoke at the annual meeting of the international Pacific salmon fisheries commission. He is commission chairman.

"This is a serious and dangerous problem, and it threatens the very existence of the Fraser river sockeye populations," he said.

He also warned the 200 delegates from B.C. and the U.S. of another danger to B.C.'s annual $50,000,000 salmon industry, the proposed construction of a series of power dams.

Senator Reid called for united action to persuade the federal and provincial governments to block construction of the 10 dams pro-fishways could be built on the Fraser to protect the salmon runs from the proposed 100-foot dams. Since the problem of over-fishing was immediate, Senator Reid said, industry must "remedy its own house by designing and supporting whatever local control is necessary."

Exotic Theda Baras Back in Limelight

By HENRI GRIS.

United Press Staff Correspondent
Hollywood (UP)—The beautiful savage girl, the enticing daughter of the native chieftain, the tantalizing gypsy are coming into their own.

From Hollywood to Rome, from Frankfurt to Tokyo, film-makers of late have been discovering the magnetic appeal of the Theda Baras of another generation, only this time their backgrounds are authentic. Theda Bara was an American who was supplied with a phony ancestry of mysterious foreign elements by movie publicity men.

The best known of the new lot are a French-Arab girl, Kerima, and a German-Japanese, Laya Raki.

Both hit the big-time this year. Kerima, as Pharaoh's faithful wife in "Land of the Pharaohs," and Laya as the gypsy in Robert Taylor's latest, "Quentin Durward."

Both are up for important roles in forthcoming movies.

The genuine French-Arab beauty who actually looks like a young Theda Bara has since been to darkest Africa and back to star opposite Pedro Armendariz in "Tam Tam Mayumbe." Befitting her origin and temperament, she played the savage native girl. The picture, a joint Franco-Italian venture directed by Italian Gian Gaspare Napolitano, promises to put Kerima at the top of the international heap.

In the movie tradition, Kerima has refused to divulge her past besides disclosing that her father is a French businessman in Algiers and her mother is a native Algerian woman. She's refrained from using her last name because of her father's insistence that his business and hers do not mix well.

Apparently dad's business had been good, for Kerima went to school in Paris, and travelled to spas as a matter of course. It was in Paris that the British film director, Sir Carol Reed, met her while preparing a picture, "Outcast of the Islands." He persuaded Kerima to accept the lead opposite Jack Hawkins, and soon thereafter, properly chaperoned, Kerima was off to Ceylon to play the savage girl who leads the weak and wily villain to destruction.

In the picture she never spoke a line, which proved very handy since she didn't know a word of English. However, the statuesque, dark-eyed beauty has mastered the language since, adding a fluent Italian for full measure. Now 27, she is married to Greek actor Alexis Revidis. She is due in Hollywood soon.

"QUENTIN DURWARD" STAR

As for Laya, much of her fiery dance, a highlight of "Quentin Durward," landed on the cutting room floor when the over-long picture had to be snipped down. She's up for another role for MGM soon, however, which would take her to Hollywood for the first time. "Quentin" was filmed in London.

Black-haired, brown-eyed, tempestuous Raki was born in Lubek, Germany, the daughter of a German-French revue director and a Dutch-Japanese dancer. She's played a Maori chieftain's daughter in the British film, "Land of Fury," made in New Zealand, a tempestuous Mexican in a German film, "Mexican Rumba," a mysterious Oriental in the German film, "The Diplomat's Wife," and so forth.

Laya started out as an "Oriental dancer" in stage revues, touring first Germany and then the entire European continent as a sort of World War II Mata Hari who never did any spying. Her movie career wasn't started until a self-styled producer called her over to London and she was left stranded when he was arrested for fraud. London papers published her story and picture, and a genuine producer offered her a genuine contract—to appear in "Land of Fury."

Adoration of the Christ Child.

Nativity Play at St. Barnabas Created as Christmas Devotion

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

This year marks the 10th occasion on which, as an act of worship, the nativity of Jesus Christ has been represented by members of St. Barnabas' Church within that sacred edifice.

It is a presentation which, in a way that is uniquely lovely, crystallizes for those who witness it, a fragment of the essential spirit of the Christmas season.

Richly decorative in its outward aspect, it has seemed to personify all those fine arts that have found expression through the ages in the Christmas story.

The illuminations, the tapestries and murals, the sculpture and stained glass of the Renaissance are briefly suggested in the stylized but essentially simple performance. It is this simplicity, the carefully preserved anonymity of the participants, which gives the piece its dignity and atmosphere of complete devotion.

And this is the form in which it was first presented 11 years ago, when the former Margot Gordon introduced it. Miss Gordon, now Mrs. L. Graham of Ottawa, was at that time a teacher at the Provincial Normal School.

Her exceptional gifts of imagination, taste and dramatic flair were responsible for some of the loveliest small play productions seen in the city within this writer's memory. She was also the originator of St. Barnabas Players, a group which developed along excellent lines, some fine dramatic talent.

But without doubt her most valuable contribution to the life of the city was her inauguration of the St. Barnabas Nativity Play.

Mrs. Graham put the play together herself, choosing with unerring instinct exquisite bits of medieval mystery plays and biblical passages to weave into an artistic whole.

Following her departure from the city, Mrs. R. Nickells (Perle Alaric) inherited the tradition and under her sensitive direction the Nativity Play continued to be performed annually. Others who have since guided it have been H. M. Bigwood, Major Harold Bellamy and Mrs. Gwen Downes.

On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of the coming week the St. Barnabas Nativity Play will once more adorn the Christmas season in Victoria.

Programs which admit the holder to the church are available at Kent's on Fort street, and are naturally limited. Therefore the group asks that persons who procure programs which they find themselves unable to use, return them so that others may not be disappointed.

For those to whom our modern Christmas celebrations are departing ever further year by year, from the true heart and essence of the season, the St. Barnabas Nativity is a balm and a delight of the spirit.

Retired Pianist Is Now Composer

Baron Leopold Louis Oscar Paul Xavier Marie von Karczag, whose professional playing career ended several years ago when he injured his hand, is now writing music.

Karczag, who has shortened his first name to "Leo," was a child prodigy in music at the age of six and toured Europe and North America until his playing days abruptly ended.

HEAD FINE CAST IN GUILD PLAY

Victoria Theatre Guild's production of "A Bill of Divorcement" opens tonight at the Langham Court Theatre. A strong cast of experienced players, headed by Carol MacCormac and Don Ross, has been assembled and rehearsed under direction of Bert Williams. The presentation of this piece is appropriately timed as the action takes place in the Christmas season. The play will run through to Saturday, Dec. 17. Tickets are available at Kent's box office or from members of the several city organizations which have taken over specific nights during the run.

Changes in Production Assure Just Performance of "Messiah"

Balance Between Chorus and Orchestra, Dramatic Effect, True to Handel Style

By HANS GRUBER

Conductor, Victoria Symphony Orchestra

The approach of the Christmas season and the music of Handel's Messiah have long since become synonymous in the minds even of those who ordinarily would not call themselves particularly musical. No doubt many city churches will resound, in the weeks to come, with excerpts from this ever more admirable work. But, to my knowledge, the only full-scale performance of the Messiah will take place this Monday night at the Royal Theatre, under the auspices of the Victoria Choral Society with Graham Steed conducting, and with the four solo roles entrusted to distinguished singers, none of whom, I believe, have been heard in this music before in Victoria.

I am told that the choir will be somewhat smaller than in previous years and, as far as I am concerned, this is all to the good.

In music of such florid and contrapuntal nature, clarity is all but impossible to achieve with mammoth choruses; such music can most clearly and transparently be served by a body of singers of reasonable proportion.

In this day and age, it is not uncommon to find a chorus outnumbering the orchestra by three, even four to one. Such could not have been Handel's intentions. We have it from Sir Thomas Beecham, a peerless (no pun intended) exponent of this work, that the number of singers should not exceed the accompanying orchestral forces. And who, having heard Sir Thomas put his contention to practical test in performance, can quarrel with its rightness?

On Monday night there will still be some discrepancy in numbers in favor of the choir, though the choir will not be appreciably larger than the symphony orchestra in its usual fully-completed form.

There is a story here, too. The orchestra has been reduced to the maximum size practicable for the size of the pit, for it is there that they will be playing, and thence that colleague he wrote for the Messiah is very far from "religious" in the hymn-like, devotional sense; it is music of drama, in the best sense of the word, and of rhythmic impact—music fitting to the exciting story it tells. If this be opera, it is unique in its greatness of libretto.

It will be a novel mounting of the Messiah, this coming Monday. The division between pit and stage is essentially a correct one for the Messiah, and this alone augurs well for the most successful and just performance yet heard here of this imperishable masterpiece.

Graham Steed will officiate. And I think, rightly so, for this particular physical arrangement suggests an opera-type undertaking, than which nothing can be more fitting where the Messiah is concerned.

Let us remember that Handel never in his heart (or his pen) ceased to be the opera composer in the Italian style, even in his later oratorio days. The music

ART OF CHRISTMAS DECOR IN GLITTERING FESTIVAL

Challenging local decor artists, the annual Festival of Christmas Decorations sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to Child and Family Welfare, offers competition in the categories of mantel, table, door and novelty arrangements and miniature trees. There is also a student section.

This year the festival will be held in the Georgian Room of the Empress Hotel on Wednesday from 2 p.m. to 9.30.

For the general public who attend during the day and evening and who are asked to nominate prizewinners by recording vote, the display is a glamorous, often breath-taking show, and productive of ideas to be adapted to individual requirements.

An auction of many of the arrangements will take place at the end of the evening.

Mrs. Frank Ross, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor, will present awards which include a handsome rose bowl.

Proceeds of the affair will go toward a new group foster home for disturbed children.

Clark Gable Is Still King

Best Known, Most Complex Movie Star Will Never Retire; Loves His Title

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Hollywood knows Clark Gable as "The King" of the box office.

Moviegoers have known him for 25 years as the brawling, roughhouse star of 55 movies including the memorable "Gone With the Wind," "Red Dust," "It Happened One Night" (which won him an Oscar), "China Seas," and "Mutiny on the Bounty."

Hollywood's bookkeepers have known him as the town's highest paid star—$9,000 a week at one time—whose pictures always make money.

Studio co-workers and the Hollywood press have known him as a moody gentleman of few words but with a dazzling personality, a passion for fast automobiles, a trim ankle and a fetish about keeping in character on and off the screen as a rugged hero.

Members of the Eighth Air Force knew him for two years in Europe, during the Second World War as a "good soldier."

Five women have known him more intimately as his husband.

CAROLE HIS KIND

The Mrs. Gable who knew him best of all probably was the late Carole Lombard, killed in a plane crash on a Nevada mountain top in 1942 as she was returning from personal appearances in behalf of the first war bond drive of the Second World War.

Carole was Gable's kind of a woman.

She was his match in tossing a hip in a fancy rumba at 1 a.m. or a cuss word in a cold duck blind at sunrise.

But I doubt if anyone really knows Clark Gable, including Mrs. Gable No. 5—Kay Williams Spreckles.

Gable's first wife, drama teacher Josephine Dillon, has said:

"The Clark Gable you see on the screen, that playful rogue with that happy-go-lucky, mischievous glint in his eye, is not the real Gable. He keeps his troubles to himself and broods about them."

"He's complex, serious, moody, thoughtful and gloomy."

There have been no really close friends in all of Clark Gable's 54 years of life, but a person close to him on his movie sets for many years once summed him up for me.

"Clark has all the money he'll ever need. He's in perfect health. But, like all actors, he worries about his lasting power as a star. The title of 'The King' is more important to him than anything in his life. He wants it to go on for ever."

EARS STOPPED HIM

He's one of those actors who will never retire. He'll wind up playing white-haired grandfathers in wheel chairs and he'll still be worried about the day when Hollywood's casting directors say, "Sorry, nothing today."

It was "Sorry, your ears are too big" the first time William Clark Gable was up for a starring role in Hollywood. He made a film test at Warner Bros. in 1929 for a big role after clicking on the stage in a road tour of a prison melodrama, "The Last Mile."

Director Mervyn LeRoy turned him down with those now famous words about big ears.

Later, when Gable won a contract at MGM and 1930 stardom in "A Free Soul," LeRoy laughed at his blunder:

"I could make money for the rest of my life just releasing Clark Gable's ears instead of pictures."

MGM was conscious of Gable's Dumbo ears, too, and in several movies, against his violent protests, makeup men

Four outstanding soloists will be guests with the Victoria Choral Society and Victoria Symphony Orchestra on Monday night when a full performance of the "Messiah" is presented at the Royal Theatre.

Graham Steed, Christ Church Cathedral organist and choir-master, will direct and net proceeds will go to Rotary Club charities. The service club is supporting the presentation as a major community undertaking.

Peggy Walton Packard and Eleanor Duff, soprano and contralto soloists, are two of this city's outstanding vocal talents.

Kelvin Service, tenor, and Russell Marshall, bass, are both imports, the former from Vancouver and the latter, San Francisco. Both appeared as soloists with the Vancouver Bach Choir in a recent performance of the "Messiah." Mr. Service for the second successive year. Famed Canadian soprano Lois Marshall and Victoria's Miss Duff sang the feminine roles.

All four shared in highly favorable press reviews from the three Vancouver dailies.

Tickets for the affair are available at Kent's box office, Fort street.

The Philadelphia Orchestra, Eugene Ormandy conducting, featured Walter Piston's Toccata for Orchestra in a recent Concert. There was some irony in that because its world premiere was given over the French radio, although Piston is an American composer—and it was introduced in this country by a French orchestra on tour.

ART in REVIEW

By COLIN GRAHAM

Probably at no period in history have painters and printmakers been so conscious of their media, or so experimental in the use of these media, as in ours. It is a time of peculiar and analytical self-consciousness about techniques.

This seems to stem from two chief causes. In the first place research in art history is making us increasingly knowledgeable about methods and materials used in earlier ages, and this allied to an urge to explore old formulae and invent new ones has resulted in a remarkable expansion of the technical apparatus open to the artist today.

To take a couple of examples, there has been a fairly widespread revival in the United States since the war of the use of encaustic, involving application of color in hot wax media.

This medium was standard in the Greco-Roman world, being particularly familiar to us through the Greco-Egyptian Fayum mummy portraits.

Then there are the painters today who are avidly exploring the possibilities latent in Renaissance and Baroque techniques using various combinations of egg tempera with linseed and poppy or walnut oils.

Impetus was given to these media by the apparent discovery a few years ago, by the Frenchman Mauger, of the late Renaissance formula for boiling these oils in lead compounds, the resulting black oil yielding particularly luminous and subtle paint surfaces.

Modern technical advances in paint chemistry are also opening up new avenues. Many artists are now using the duco paints first developed, I believe, by the automobile industry; while others are exploring the new oil-soluble plastic paints.

Nevertheless, it would be wrong to imagine that present-day experimentation is tied merely to the discovery of old techniques or the invention of new ones.

Standard media, such as watercolor and stone lithography, have been pushed to new expressive limits.

In watercolor an artist like Jack Shadbolt will today exploit a tonal range hardly dreamed of 30 years ago, while an international figure like Picasso will draw out of the

Eskimo Chief Lauds Writer's Authenticity

LAND OF THE LONG DAY, by Doug. Wilkinson. Toronto: Clarke, Irwin and Co. Ltd. 261 pp. With maps and colored pictures. $5.00.

Doug. Wilkinson's Eskimo name is Kingmik. For more than a year he lived in north Baffin and later he received a note from Idlook, chief of the Auluteevikmiut, which read: "I write that Kingmik is doing things exactly as Eskimos do. He is a good man. He will understand very well about us when he is through. He lives right with us. He does not tell false things about the way Eskimos live and do things."

What more eloquent testimonial could an author receive? In addition to being an able writer, Doug. Wilkinson is a fine photographer. Twenty-six photographs, including eight in full color, are contained in the book, which has maps of the Eskimo country on the end-sheets.

"Land of the Long Day" is a corking good adventure story of interest to young and old alike.

Readers will understand, when they have finished the book, why Doug. Wilkinson respects the Eskimo people—and why they respect him.—J.S.K.

SAMPLINGS FOR THE JUNIOR BOOKWORM

Fantasy, Fact and Adventure Among Gift Book Possibilities

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

To the boy or girl who enjoys reading and being read to—and thank goodness despite TV there are still a good large number of budding book lovers around—no Christmas gift is more welcome than a new book. One big virtue of the book as a gift is that duplication, except in title, not only doesn't matter—it's all to the good.

Book departments this time of year are practically bulging with riches; the books themselves are more tantalizing and alluring it seems, season after season, as publishers strive to overcome the counter-entertainment offered everyone from the time they step out of the cradle.

To the hurried shopper these lavish displays must present a staggering problem in selection, particularly if he or she is not overly familiar with the world of children's books.

So a few that have recently come to the attention of this department are here discussed in the hope of ironing out some of the perplexities of making a Christmas choice for that young bookworm among the friends and relatives.

For the sleepy-time story hour and the five to eight-year-olds who like to watch the story unfold in pictures as dad or mum or granny read the text, there is "A Dog Came to School," by Lois Lenski; a simple adventure but natural enough for the child to follow appreciatively. It reintroduces a character, Davy, made popular in former books by this author, and recounts an unusual day for his dog, Spot. Line illustrations by the author are charmingly naive and stylized.

In the happy realm of fantasy and appropriate both in size and theme, for tucking in that Christmas stocking, is "Brownies—It's Christmas," by Gladys L. Adhead, the text liberally sprinkled with whimsical drawings by Velma Halsey. Youngsters who are sufficiently advanced to read this for themselves will enjoy the format with words that whisper, crawl, stretch and turn hand springs along with the characters. The theme is a wholesome declaration of the good-will and joy from simple things.

Any youngster in this age group—and perhaps a year or two older—who has a fancy for ships and the sea will almost surely discover in "Little Tim and the Brave Sea Captain" a book to treasure. This book first appeared in 1935 and has now been re-drawn and re-designed by Edward Ardizzone and provided with extra text. The story it tells—of a sea-struck small boy who stows away on a steamer—is unusual and intriguing and the illustrations in black and white and full color are exquisite.

Frontispiece from Mazo de la Roche's "Song of Lambert."

All three foregoing are published by Oxford University Press.

For slightly older children there are two books which are so unique and delightful in treatment and theme that they deserve to become small classics.

Mazo de la Roche, Canadian author of the Jalna series, has written a tale of delicate whimsy in "The Song of Lambert." There is wild excitement in the pastoral setting when it is discovered that Lambert can sing.

How he charmed all creatures with the beauty of his song, how he discovered the South Pole, how he escaped being made into chops and cutlets, is a tale that will carry readers both young and old from first page to last in fascination and delight.

Drawings by Eileen Soper are delicate, decorative and full of life. MacMillan, Toronto, publishes this.

The second book, "The Tree House of Jimmy Domino" is the work of a fine creative intellect—Jean Merrill. The subject-matter is unusual, it has a poignancy that fires the imagination, and sensitive line drawings by Ronnie Solbert. Oxford University Press are publishers.

While the older group of juveniles are easier to shop for—in reading as in other things they usually have quite positive tastes—here are a few titles that are worth remembering.

"Glooskap's Country and Other Indian Tales" is a particularly fine collection of original Canadian Indian folklore and legend. It begins with stories of Glooskap, supernatural hero of the Micmacs of Eastern Canada.

Handsomely illustrated in both color and black and white it would make an appropriate addition to the Christmas tree for boys and girls from seven to eight right up to 15 and 16-year-olds. Oxford University Press are again the publishers.

Scott Names Choices From Fall Book Lists

By JAMES SCOTT

Staunchly sticking to my principles, I am a man who still thinks a well-chosen good book is the best gift anybody can get at the Yuletide Season, but, by golly, with the spate of books that flood the market each year nowadays, it's no easy job for anybody, no matter how well intentioned, to make an intelligent selection.

Here are a score of books—out of hundreds—which I have winnowed from the autumn deluge. For me, as far as I can remember, these are the ones I consider most likely to succeed under the Christmas tree.

For those who like serious fiction, I suggest Gabriel's "The Cashier" and Aldous Huxley's "The Genius and the Goddess" and I don't think you'll go wrong with either of them. But if you are looking for novels which have a heavier entertainment value, then take a look at these: Alistair MacLean's "HMS Ulysses," the best naval fiction of the year, Robert Standish's "A Long Way to Pimlico," or Roger Melville's "In Search of Splendour." And if you have anybody on your list who likes to keep up with the up and coming young writers slip in Mordecai Richler's "Son of a Smaller Hero."

You can never go very far wrong with a good book about far-away places and this season there are a couple which rate high. Agnes Newton Keith's "Bare Feet in the Palace" maintains the standard of the classic "Land Below the Wind" in a new account of life in the Philippines where the Keith's now reside. John Gunther's "Inside Africa" is probably the best of the general books about the dark continent to come out in a year which has seen more attention paid to that continent than since Livingstone's day.

On the Canadian history front—history with humanity, that is, and very readable, too—there are three excellent choices from the fall lists. Donald Creighton's second volume, "John A. Macdonald, the Old Chieftain," is still the biography of the year. Bruce Hutchison's "The Struggle for the Border" is the most readable general history of Canada written in 1955.

But as a runner-up in interest, there is Fred Coyne Hamill's "Lake Erie Baron," which is an account of the fabulous Colonel Talbot, the great and picturesque colonizer on the shore of Lake Erie.

HAL MARCH STARS IN SUNDAY COMEDY AT 1 ON C-4

Most of the highlights this weekend appear on Sunday programming. For instance, there is a Maurice Evans spectacular, an opera, a pro football game and an Alec Guinness movie.

The spectacular is a 90-minute adaptation of Elmer Rice's "Dream Girl," starring Vivian Blaine, Hal ($64,000 Question) March and Evelyn Varden. Commencing at 1 on Channel 4 "Dream Girl" is a comedy about Georgian Allerton who manages and is part owner of a book shop. The trouble with Georgina is, her mind simply isn't on her business. For she is a daydreamer of first quality. However, there is reporter and down-to-earth man Clark Redfield ready to put Georgina in her place.

At 2, C-4 will carry the NBC Opera Theatre version of "Madame Butterfly" on Channel 2. Elaine Malbin and Davis Cunningham are the stars. The singing is in English.

The pro football game also hits the screen at 2. Channel 5 will carry the game from Kezar stadium where the Baltimore Colts play the San Francisco 49ers.

At 7.30 Channel 5 will carry the excellent British motion picture, "The Promoter," starring the inimitable Alex Guinness. This is the humorous and very clever play about a "card" who rises from nothing to become mayor of his town . . . thanks to his wife and more than a modicum of galls.

The only thing special to remember about Saturday is the hockey game. At 8, via Channel 13, the Seattle Americans will host the Winnipeg Warriors.

Here is the balance of the weekend highlights in order of their appearance:

Twelve of the applicants were selected by an examining panel. Later, nine will be given temporary government appointments, and after a backlog of barn inspections has been cleared away, five will be named to permanent positions.

The appointments follow the recently-released Cyne Royal Commission report on the dairy industry, which disclosed that the barn inspection service was "completely broken down."

Analyst to Give Evidence In Burglary Tools Case

Preliminary hearing on a charge of possession of burglary tools against Nelson Hutchison, 642 Johnson, and Bhag (Ram) Singh, 2550 Vancouver, was adjourned to Dec. 15 in Saanich police court.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall said the adjournment was granted to allow arrangements for continuance of $5,000 bail for each man.

Twenty-one exhibits, including a six-foot-long steel bar, detonating caps, a flashlight battery and photos taken by the RCMP were entered. Prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie said he will call an analyst when the hearing resumes to prove that the large bar and a smaller one found in the car were used in a break-in a week earlier at a B & K store on Burnside.

UPS AND DOWNS IN THE CRAZY, MIXED-UP WORLD OF SPORTS

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER

Lint from a worn shirt cuff: Think the Cougars, again battling below .500 and battling to get back on an even keel, are going bad? Do you really? What heresy, when it's considered that in the 1928-29 season Chicago Black Hawks never scored a single goal over one eight-game period and were blanked 20 times in the 44-game schedule of that era!

Quotable quote from managing director Fred Hutchinson of the Cougars on the two new players expected to join the club in Vancouver Monday night:

"I can't tell you who they are; I won't tell you who they are because the players themselves won't be told until Saturday; but they're coming by way of Hershey and Boston."

(That was before today's announcement of the acquisition of Jim Robertson.)

Asked what Harold Cotton of the Boston Bruins thought of the team, Hutchinson said:

"I think we agree on what we need." Color photos, et al, is Sport magazine's contribution to the work that Andy Heberton is doing as a member of the New York Rangers. But the accompanying yarn concerns Phil Watson, the Ranger mentor.

In essence, Phil says of the Rangers and his methods: "I want my players to live hockey, to eat hockey, to sleep hockey. The glamor boys can pack their bags whenever they please."

Bobby Allan, they say, can twist a mean boot around a soccer ball (he could as a kid); Bobby Allan, they say, enjoyed a successful visit in Winnipeg; Bobby Allan, they say, now is working on the North Shore, across from Vancouver; and Bobby Allan, they say too, is, or will be, playing for the Reds.

Why the fanfare? Because Bobby is a city product. Aside to Charlie Lewis of the Strathconas: (Now, if you're looking for a player . . .)

Tut, tut, dear caller (the phone is still sweating); don't cross us on that one, please. What we said was that Colin Kilburn (It's My View, Friday) would just as soon score that first goal . . . than you know what. And so, your argument is hereby declared null and void, as the man with the most first goals of the game in the Western Hockey League this season is—shall we repeat the name—Colin Kilburn. The number is five.

Incidentally, Bart Bradley, an ex-Cougar, has scored only seven goals this year, but five have been game winners. That's percentage plus.

There was a time, in sport, when, if you punched a referee, that was the last punching of any referees you ever did in that particular sport. Pi Campbell of basketball will remember that edict well.

But now! What does it matter? Penticton's Bill Warwick clubbed an official over the head with his stick, and got only a six-game reprieve from duty for his indiscretion. Don Ashbee fisted an Island hockey referee in the face and knocked that official kicking a while ago; and what does he get? An eight-game suspension. If this policy (see week's work by Boyd) of "let's forgive and forget" keeps up, fisting officials could become a distasteful but approved habit.

And if that's the taste of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association, better they of that august (?) body should exorcise immediately. The present odor is hard to take.

THE MAIL BAG—The Seven Mules, of which new B.C. Lion coach Clem Crowe was one, was the Notre Dame line which opened the gates through which the fabled Four Horsemen galloped. Members of that backfield were Layden, Miller, Stuhldreher and Crowley.

SPORTS NEWS IN BRIEF

Ray Won't Get Sugar (From CP and AP Dispatches) New middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson and the International Boxing Club were served with a writ of attachment Friday night by the federal government, holding up Robinson's share of receipts in his fight against Carl Bobo Olson.

Robinson's purse will be held up pending settlement of an $81,000 claim in unpaid taxes.

Sugar Ray will receive a 25 per cent cut of the gate and the $75,000 guarantee from television and radio proceeds.

Arpad Fazekas, goalkeeper for the Hungarian soccer team and the Veerlos Lobogo teams, has been suspended from playing soccer until Dec. 31, 1956, because of his somewhat illegal off-the-field activities. Fazekas has been caught smuggling according to Radio Budapest.

Russia's hockey team, bouncing back from a 3-2 setback at the hands of Sweden Thursday, trounced their antagonists Friday night, 6-2, to win the two-game, total-goal series, 8-5.

Off-season activity in the major leagues has Willie Mays, slugging outfielder for the New York Giants, signing his 1956 contract for a reported $35,000, a $10,000 raise over last season. Also signing a contract reported to be around $35,000 was Larry Doby, who has been traded to Chicago White Sox from the Cleveland Indians, while veteran pitcher Russ Meyer has been traded to the Chicago Cubs by the world champion Brooklyn Dodgers. Meyer is 31 years old, and had a 6-2 record with Brooklyn last year.

An old pro at the age of 27, Pancho Gonzales spoiled Tony Trabert's professional debut in New York Friday by whipping him, 9-11, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2. The match was a first in a pro tour that will take the pair into 100 cities.

Canadian Amateur Ski Association, which got into difficulties in October when it named an 11-man team to represent Canada at the winter Olympics in Cortina, Italy, next February, cut its limit down to the 10 members required by the Canadian Olympic Association by cutting Monique Langlois of Quebec City. Miss Langlois has been declared medically unfit because she is still recovering from a broken leg suffered last winter.

Bruins Stop Losin'

But Not Winning Either; Tie Hawks

By The Canadian Press

Boston 1, Chicago 1

Boston Bruins shook that extended losing streak in the National Hockey League. Now, it seems, they may be starting a tying binge.

The Bruins, who snapped a winless run at nine games a week ago, last Friday were held to their second straight deadlock—a 1-1 count against Chicago Black Hawks.

It was the Beantowners' eighth tie in 27 games this season and left them second only to Detroit Red Wings as the club with the most deadlocks. Wings have 11.

Bruins had to come from behind in the game—played before a slim crowd of 4,880 at St. Louis. Defenceman Lionel Heinrich made it 1-1 at 9:03 of the first period, nearly five minutes after Johnny Wilson sent the Hawks into the lead.

Referee Red Storey called 16 penalties, eight to each team.

Five games are scheduled this weekend. The Rangers meet the last-place Leafs at Toronto and the Wings are at Montreal tonight. Sunday it's Toronto at Chicago, Montreal at Boston and New York at Detroit. (Summary page 13.)

Tillicums Test Wanderers Sunday

Undeclared Tillicums will put their win streak on the line against Dutch Wanderers Sunday afternoon at lower Beacon Hill park in one of three second division matches scheduled by Victoria and District Football Association.

Other matches will have Brodies vs. Duncan at Central park and Esquimalt vs. JBAA at Central park.

All games start at .30.

CASEY GIVES UP GRID FOR MEDICAL CAREER

WINNIPEG (BUP) — Winnipeg Blue Bomber veteran all-star Tom Casey announced Friday night he has played his last football game.

The perennial Western Conference gridiron star has played seven seasons of pro football in Canada. He came to Winnipeg in 1950 from Hamilton.

Born in Pennsylvania, educated at Hampton Institute, Virginia, "Citation" Casey is a medical student at the University of Manitoba when he is not setting football records.

"I have been cheating medicine for four years and it is time to get down to business," he said.

Ray Weeps for Joy, Bobo 'Didn't Have It'

By ED SAINSBURY, United Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (UP)—Ray Robinson regained the world middleweight boxing championship for the second time—but he wept.

"I thank God for giving me this chance," he said with uplifted eyes and arms after his knockout victory over Carl "Bobo" Olson.

"I didn't get the title very easy and I'm not going to give it away," he said, sobbing intermittently.

"I can't tell you how good it feels to be champion again. It's something I have wanted for so long, I can't talk about it."

It was surprising that Robinson could find room for tears in his 10x12-foot dressing room. It was jammed with newsmen.

Olson, the loser, needed no protection from the mob. Photographers and reporters came only in pairs. The 27-year-old Hawaiian sat morosely on his rubbing table, a towel smeared with blood from a bruise on his nose wrapped around his head.

It was several minutes before he could talk, and then only after he had stepped unhappily off the bench to pose for a picture with Joey Giambra, who had been listed as his next opponent.

"I just didn't have it," Olson said. "I fought like an amateur. I couldn't fight. I knew it halfway through the first round."

"I just couldn't think fighting. My mind wasn't on it. Family troubles. I couldn't think about it."

"So fast, so fast," muttered Olson. "It was his fast combinations and I got careless. It was too fast. I don't know, maybe the ref counted too fast. Did he?"

"Did I try to get up?" he asked. Someone assured Bobo he made a try at the count of eight and then rolled over.

"I did?" asked the unbelieving Olson.

Also-Rans Running First for a Change

By FRANK EIDGE, JR.

United Press Sports Writer MIAMI (UP)—Five golfers who generally wind up as also-rans found themselves leading the field in the second round of the $125,000 Miami open today with 39 sharpshooters right on their heels.

Unsung newcomer Doug Higgins of Midland, Tex., had the best chance to go to the front but when the day's firing ended he was in a tie for the lead with Frank Stranahan, Toledo, O.; Wally Ulrich, Bethesda, Md.; Mike Fitchick, Mahopac, N.Y.; and Jack Isaacs, Langley Field, Va. The five some carded three-under-par 67's.

Bunched within easy shooting distance behind the leaders were 11 with a score of 68, 13 with 69's and 15 with even-par 70's. In the latter group was formidable Sam Snead, the hot Sulphur Springs, W.Va., veteran picked by most to win this event for the sixth time.

Swim Gala Set Tonight

A brisk program, with no wasted time between events will be the aim tonight in the big international swimming meet between Victoria YMCA and Bremerton YMCA at Crystal Garden.

Victoria Y head coach Archie McKinnon has requested that all swimmers report to the pool by 6:30 so that the first events will get under way at 7 sharp.

Hoad Gets Battle MELBOURNE, Australia (UP)—Lew Hoad today won the Victorian singles final by beating Ashley Cooper in five sets, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4.

Although Cooper lost to Hoad, he thrilled the huge crowd by matching Hoad's big game and showing that he is the most promising among the junior players.

"I didn't realize I had a shot at the lead or I might have played the last hole differently," the 29-year-old Higgins said.

Approaching the 18th four under par, the blond pro pronounced a pitch shot 15 feet past the cup and two-putted for a bogey-five.

Bunched within easy shooting distance behind the leaders were 11 with a score of 68, 13 with 69's and 15 with even-par 70's. In the latter group was formidable Sam Snead, the hot Sulphur Springs, W.Va., veteran picked by most to win this event for the sixth time.

Sugar Ray won the first round on the score sheets of the two judges, John Bray and Ed Hintz, 10-9, but referee Sikora called it even 10-10. The United Press had Sugar Ray ahead, 10-9.

The noisy crowd of 12,441 paid a gross gate of $139,725 for the fight, which was blacked out on television on a 150-mile radius. The net gate was $114,929. In addition, the TV-radio fee was $75,000. Olson's 35 per cent of all net receipts amounted to $66,475, and Robinson's 25 per cent was $47,482.

'Like a Miracle', Says Thankful Ray

'I Left The Rest To God'

CHICAGO (UP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, still amazed and delighted at the quick knockout over Carl (Bobo) Olson that made him the first middleweight ever to win the world championship three times, said today "it seems almost like a miracle."

"I'm a Christian," Robinson said. "I did the very best I could and left the rest to God."

At 35, he scored the most glorious victory of his long career Friday night on an upset knockout over 27-year-old Olson at 2:51 of the second round before 12,441 wildly yelling fans in Chicago Stadium and recaptured the 160-pound crown for the second time.

His second thwarting of the ancient ring axiom: "They never come back," was achieved at the very hour when life seemed darkest for him.

Shortly before the fight, he was tagged with an $87,000 federal tax lien, and Chicago newspapers were front-page the gangland slaying of his former business associate, Alex Louis Greenberg.

Robinson and Joe Louis a few years ago had the Detroit distributing rights for Greenberg's Canadian Ace Brewing Co.

The slender negro with the little mustache went into the ring a 3-1 underdog because most experts and betting men thought "his legs were gone" and that he could not go 15 rounds in the nationally televised and broadcast fight against the aggressive Hawaiian-born Bobo from San Francisco.

But Robinson didn't let Olson last long enough to answer the $64,000 question about the legs. He rocked Bobo early in the second round with a right to the chin, and staggered him a minute later in an exchange with a left hook to the jaw. Then he began battering Bobo and finally dropped him with a left hook and a smashing right to the jaw. The explosive right blasted Bobo to his back on the canvas.

Bobo writhed about on the floor but was unable to lift himself as referee Frank Sikora waved the 10-count above him. He suffered the third knockout and eighth defeat of his career in the fourth defence of the crown.

It was Olson who had forced the fight in every minute except during the final barrage. However, the retreating, side-stepping and circling Robinson landed the more effective punches.

Sugar Ray won the first round on the score sheets of the two judges, John Bray and Ed Hintz, 10-9, but referee Sikora called it even 10-10. The United Press had Sugar Ray ahead, 10-9.

Robinson, a former team-mate with Skip Teal at St. Catharines, turned professional with Hershey last year and, in 17 games, scored three goals and had 11 assists.

He is reported to be a good skater and a good shot and comes well recommended by Harold Cotton, Boston scout.

Robertson is scheduled to join the club in Vancouver Monday night and to make his first appearance here on Tuesday when Cougars host Winnipeg Warriors.

Cougars expect another player to join the Bruins Monday. He has not been identified.

To make room for the additions, Mark Marquess has been sold to Vancouver Canucks. The veteran winger did not play for the Cougars in Edmonton Friday.

Brown, Kilburn Find Range Cougars twice took the lead against the Flyers and lost their margin each time on penalties. The Flyers scoring both of their goals while the Cougars were short-handed.

Wayne Brown tallied the first marker on a 20-foot drive in the first period which trickled through goalie Giles Boisvert's pads and barely over the line.

Chuck Holmes tied it for the Flyers with a backhand early in the second period while net.

Canucks Rout Warriors In other games Friday, Vancouver Canucks, paced by Phil Maloney, whipped Winnipeg Warriors, 5-1, and Saskatoon Quakers and Regina Regals battled to a 3-3 tie.

Maloney scored one goal and assisted on three others in the Canucks victory. Bruce Carmichael, Ray Cyr, Hugh Currie and Carl Kaiser also scored for the Canucks. Eddie Mazur counted Winnipeg's goal.

Victoria Cougars got what they went looking for Friday night.

They earned a point in a 2-2 Western Hockey League tie with Edmonton Flyers at Edmonton, and they secured a player from the parent Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League.

The 22 tie was the Cougars' third point in four games of their prairie tour which concludes at Calgary tonight.

The new acquisition is Jim Robertson, a 22-year-old left wing or centre, who comes to the club after being recalled from Hershey Bears by the Bruins. He is on loan to the Cougars.

Robertson, a former team-mate with Skip Teal at St. Catharines, turned professional with Hershey last year and, in 17 games, scored three goals and had 11 assists.

The Athletics, defending Canadian champions, were in front 30-21 at half-time. Joe Puhlich led the visitors with 13 points.

The teams meet here again Saturday night.

A Week's Work

By DENNY BOYD

Hockey is hanging a cheap price tag on its referees. So much so that putting the slug on a referee must seem like a tempting bargain to spendthrift players.

Two cases in point have provided news copy recently. And they have provided fuel for anyone who thinks, as this corner does, that hockey officials blithely guide the hand that is cutting their own throats.

The British Columbia Hockey Association has been the culprit in both cases and the crime has been failing to apply sufficient severity in handling two instances of hockey players deliberately attacking referees.

Item One concerns flamboyant trigger-tempered Billy Warwick, one of the Go-Vs-Go Warwicks of Penticton.

As famed for his murderous rages as for his great scoring ability, Billy attacked a referee recently and climaxed his assault by smashing his stick over the referee's head.

The president of the Okanagan Senior Hockey League labelled Warwick's actions, "a deliberate attempt to injure."

Warwick's case was turned over to the BCAHA for punitive judgement and president Ed Benson of Trail gave Warwick the laughably lenient punishment of a six-game suspension.

A six-game holiday for an attack that was recognized as a deliberate attempt to injure the referee...

Those muffled chuckles you hear could be Warwick laughing up his sleeve. When the price is so cheap, it is small wonder that some players don't think twice before they start a rumble with a referee.

Referee Abuse Seen Here, Too

Item Two brings us closer to home, to Don Ashbee and the Vancouver Island Amateur Hockey League.

Ashbee's temper record needs little revision here. Lacrosse and hockey fans know him to be a steam-driven personality with an intense dislike for officials of all games.

In this year's lacrosse playoffs, Ashbee showed his disapproval of referee Syd Greenwood's work by sticking Greenwood on the wrist while the referee was spotting the ball for a face-off.

Two weeks ago, while playing for Nanaimo Clippers in a Vancouver Island Amateur Hockey League game at Memorial Arena, Ashbee became embroiled with referee John Ruryk, an official who makes mistakes but works hard and puts a sincere effort into his job.

Ashbee got mad. He punched Ruryk and completely flattened him.

Ashbee's case, too, went to the BCAHA. Their ruling, guided by anything but wisdom, called for an eight-game suspension. Ironically, Ashbee served three of those games while waiting for the sentence.

Roll down another sleeve and measure it for laughing size.

Hockey Kills Its Own Roots

How in thunderation can these people who supposedly run hockey expect their sport to flourish healthily when they deliberately hack away at the foundation of the game?

They say hockey is better now than it was in the old days. But is the present day trend better than in the old days when an attack on a referee meant a life-time suspension? Not from this angle.

Are attacks on referees dealt with so lightly because they are so common or are they so common because they are dealt with so lightly? Choose one answer and send it immediately to your nearest BCAHA dealer.

Until such time as the crowned heads of hockey start paying less attention to sucking the last dime off the paying fans and devote more time to backing their game officials, they are going to go on cutting their own throats a little more each year until they bleed themselves lifeless.

Auburn's Deadly Duo Sinks Totems, 83-71

Bob Johnson and Bill Boyer paced the Auburn Washington Rockets as they roared to an 83-71 win over the Victoria High School Totems in a basketball game in the Vic High gym Friday night.

While Boyer calmly stood in the right corner of the court and potted long one-handed set shots, All-State guard Johnson was scoring baskets from every spot and angle imaginable.

Johnson scored 25 points while Boyer hit for 20.

Only Totem to come anywhere near the accurate Americans was lanky Waldo Skillings, who netted 21 points.

Featuring a fast-breaking offense, the flashy Rockets proved from the starting whistle that they were all that they were cracked up to be. Rated as the second best team in the State of Washington, the Auburn lads are unbeaten so far this season.

Their most recent accomplishment was a 10-point victory over the powerful Lester Pearson High School squad of New Westminster, B.C., a combination of Trapp Tech and Duke of Connaught High School.

Auburn opened up very fast in the first half, scoring 18 points in the first quarter and 29 in the second for a half-time lead of 47-27.

Totems came back after the break to gain eight points on their American rivals in the second half but this late rally was not enough to pull the game out of the fire.

Friday night's game brings Totems' record to four wins and two losses in the season thus far. Only other loss sustained by the black and gold squad was a one-point defeat at the hands of Alberni High School Chieftans.

Totems will not play again until the new year, when they will play in four tournaments and make a road trip to Vancouver.

In a scrappy preliminary match, Normal School girls beat out an improved Vic High senior girls team 39-30.

having been established, the association has decided to step in and take over.

The interest now is no doubt of the correct nature—but where was it two years ago?

Returned to executive position were Howard Damasko, president; Bill Brown, vice-president, and Ron Wilson, secretary. Bud Falk, Ken Munn, Wilbur Webb and Tom Nute were named to an executive committee.

Two Victoria Press Ltd. trundlers set the pace for ten-pins this week.

Ron Coulter scored games of 214, 200 and 191 for a 605 total, and Bill Walker followed closely with a 596 (234, 208) effort, in Gibson's commercial tens.

Other top totals were shot by Herb Chandler, 571 (219); Jack Hobby, 570 (200); Wilbur Webb, 569 (202, 204), and Ken Munn, 569 (200).

LOS ANGELES (UP)—

Young Floyd Patterson's manager served notice today:

"Rocky Marciano is the fellow we're after."

"We'll continue to get him as many fights as possible, with the ultimate objective Marciano," Patterson's manager, Gus D'Amato, said. "I'd say he'd be ready by next year—an open-air show next summer. Marciano is the fellow we're after."

Al Weill, Marciano's manager, was said by a friend to believe Patterson is the only contender in the world with a chance to beat Rocky—and draw a million dollar gate with him.

Patterson, undefeated in all but one of his 28 pro fights, has been ranked No. 1 challenger for Archie Moore's lightweight crown. Thursday night he scored a seventh-round technical knockout over Jimmy Slade.

IAN FRASER finishes lap, clocked by Gordon Hartley.

No Glamor Guy Is Ian, But Wait a Few Years

By DENNY BOYD

Victoria High School's outstanding athlete is no glamor-guy of the basketball court or muscle-bulky behemoth of the rugby field.

He is a rather skinny, 112-pound, 5' 6" distance runner named Ian Fraser.

How good is he? Good enough to prompt his coach, Gordon Hartley, to say:

"This boy just can't miss the 1960 Olympic Games."

Good enough so that Archie McKinnon, former Olympic track and field coach says of him, "He definitely looks like a very good prospect. He has the leanness a runner needs and all the desire that is so important."

And good enough to draw from Bruce Humber YMCA track and field coach, former Olympic Games and British Empire Games track and field coach, the evaluation that:

"He is going to be a very good runner. He has unlimited grit and determination and has an excellent future in distance running."

Hartley, as Ian's coach, is his most ardent booster but Hartley refuses to take any credit for the 16-year-old runner's development.

Hartley says, "All I have done is encourage Ian and teach him to condition himself. His development has been due to his own determination and the constant inspiration and interest of his Dad."

The bond between Ian and his father is a story in itself.

Anyone who has watched local cross-country races or high school track meets will recognize Mr. Fraser as the ruddy-faced gentleman with the red hair who waits quietly, a few steps past the finishing tape in the distance events. He usually has a stop-watch in his hand, checking Ian's time.

Mr. Fraser guides Ian's training, seeing that the boy gets plenty of the right kind of food (no Cokes and pastries) and nine hours sleep every night.

As for the actual running, no one has to ride herd on Ian on this part of his training. Ian loves to run. He was out running on his own during the recent freezing snap. Since school started in September, Ian has logged about 200 miles of pavement pounding and the figure should be up to 500 miles by June.

His dedicated training and persistence has paid off handsomely. Ian started out last year by winning the Canadian Legion junior 1½-mile race but a subsequent hip injury prevented him from contesting the Royal Roads Invitational and the Pacific Northwest Cross-country championships.

But he recovered to win the B.C. High School championship over a tough 2½-mile course, a course that included a couple of ploughed fields that had to be crossed in a drenching rainstorm. He won that one by two strides. He climaxed the year by winning the Canadian Legion five-mile race from the best runners on the Island.

This year Fraser captured the Legion 2½-mile event, and finished an excellent second in the Royal Roads race, losing by 70 yards to Evergreen Conference champion Jack Burnett over a 4.2-mile course with a field of 66 runners. Ian was only 16 at the time, Burnett was 21.

He admits that, when he is far out in front of a race, "I sometimes start day-dreaming and I always lose ground when I do that."

Hartley feels Ian is three years off his peak but he is sure that with continued coaching and the same interest and attention from his father, the Fraser family will have an Olympic star by 1960.

Tom's Just a Rookie, But He Learns Fast

A 73-year-old "rookie" at the Victoria Curling Club is proving these days to other curlers and the public in general that one is never too old to learn, after all.

Tom Alexander, born and raised in Victoria, started curling at the tender age of 71, and is now one of the top curlers in the Veterans' League. Tom, who also curls in the club draw, throws from the second slot and has piled up nine wins in 14 games for 18 points, and one of the top spots in the veterans' loop.

Other younger and livelier curlers are reminded by club manager Fred Madden that 9 tonight is the deadline for entries for the knockout competition to decide the Victoria representatives to the B.C.

Consols playdowns in Port Alberni next month.

So far, eight teams, skipped by Dunstan, Moir, Perlette, Gutoski, Thomson, Young, Bullock and G. Thomson have entered the double-knockout competition, which will start about Dec. 22 at the club. Two rinks will carry Victoria's colors to Port Alberni in January.

In league play this week, Peterson, who is leading the club draw, is getting an argument from Robinson in section A1, Robinson moved to within one point of top spot. Leaders in the other sections are: Gordon, A2; Fletcher, B1; Coughlin and Marshall, B2; Lauder, C1 and Gates, C2.

Dunstan is rolling along in the Wednesday afternoon commercial league with an undefeated streak of five straight games, while Jim Tang is yet to suffer a loss in the B.C. Electric league.

Other league leaders this week include J. Moir in the Sunday commercial and Taylor in the Dockyard Curling Club.

Mitt Lessons Seattle-Style

By BILL RAYNER

Two dashing, talented young colored boys from Seattle gave 400 fans and two Vancouver Island fighters boxing lessons they will long remember Friday night at Victoria Ballroom.

The two Seattle boxers, Bobby Hicks and Wilbur Young, were carded against the local boys in the double main event of the 10-bout boxing show sponsored by the Victoria Amateur Boxing Association.

Hicks, 123-pound bundle of dynamite, and voted the best fighter of the Optimist Club's Tournament of Champions here last May, turned in another superb performance to solidly outpoint Earl Vance, 126½, of Chemsalus, former Island Golden Boy.

Vance put up a game show against the shifty, lightning-fast Hicks, who fought out of a flawless crouch, but was definitely outclassed.

Young, at 158 pounds, exerted the same mastery over popular Bert Wilkinson of Victoria. Although wild at times, the well-muscled Seattle Negro shook Wilkinson repeatedly with solid lefts and rights and kept him retreating and off-balance all through the fight.

The other bouts of the well-matched card made up in enthusiasm for what they lacked in science. Only two of the fights failed to go the scheduled three-round distance, both stopped on TKOs.

Most solid hitting power was displayed by Francis Connelly, a 152-pound tiger who is built along the general lines of Rocky Marciano. Connelly flattened opponent Jack Kniesly of Seattle four times before Kniesly's second throw in the towel at 1:21 of the second round.

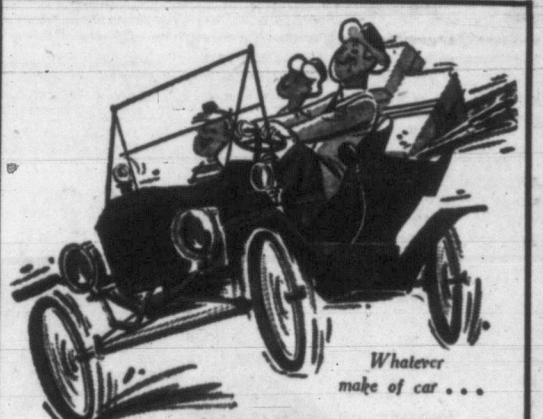

REES SCORES

Other TKO went to promising navy fighter Bill Rees, 154 pounds. Terry Eastman, of Chemsalus, knocked down in the first round by a solid left-right combination from Rees, was deemed unfit to answer the bell for the second round and the referee stopped the fight.

The local boys came through

Tenpin Tournney Dates Set

The Victoria Tenpin Bowling Association held a meeting this week.

From the meeting came one decision of importance, and one of a minor and surprising nature.

Of most value to city tenpinners; a site and date for the 1956 city championships was set. Strathcona alleys will host the pin meet on Feb. 5 and 12, teams rolling on the former date and doubles and singles events being run off on the latter.

The association made a second decision—it will appoint a committee to handle zone final playdowns.

The zone finals, tentatively set for April, are to decide a city singles champ to vie for the provincial crown in a roll-off at Vancouver.

For the past two years alley operators and interested bowlers have formed groups which ran the finals smoothly—the association offering little or no aid.

The success of the event

having been established, the association has decided to step in and take over.

The interest now is no doubt of the correct nature—but where was it two years ago?

Returned to executive position were Howard Damasko, president; Bill Brown, vice-president, and Ron Wilson, secretary. Bud Falk, Ken Munn, Wilbur Webb and Tom Nute were named to an executive committee.

Two Victoria Press Ltd. trundlers set the pace for ten-pins this week.

Ron Coulter scored games of 214, 200 and 191 for a 605 total, and Bill Walker followed closely with a 596 (234, 208) effort, in Gibson's commercial tens.

Other top totals were shot by Herb Chandler, 571 (219); Jack Hobby, 570 (200); Wilbur Webb, 569 (202, 204), and Ken Munn, 569 (200).

Concrete Facts On Wall Building

Q. What precautions should be taken against cracking in laying block and concrete brick walls?

Control joints should be used in long walls. These allow for the natural volume changes in materials due to temperature changes. Your concrete products manufacturer can help you space these control joints properly.

Horizontal reinforcement is also recommended, to provide stability in the wall. Again, the concrete products manufacturer will advise you how much reinforcement you will need. Reinforcement under large windows, and flashing under sills also help to prevent hairline cracks.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Watch, Record and Remember Precept for Novice Gardener

The past has gone and cannot be recaptured or changed, therefore forget it and never look back. So states the author of a book I have just finished.

Maybe we can not change the past, but as gardeners, it is the looking back over past experiences which aids our future efforts.

It is the new-comer to gardening without a past to look back on who encounters the most difficulties.

From the gardener's point of view mistakes of the past need never be repeated, while the re-counting of details which led to a failure will show the way to success next time.

Looking back over the season just finished there are several questions we can ask ourselves, and the answers should help us in next year's plans.

Were crops sown early enough?

The weather, the condition of the soil and the location of the garden will, of course, influence sowing, but they do not excuse unnecessary delay in getting the seeds into the soil.

The early crops are the ones most appreciated and most needed. Later in the season it is easy to have plenty, probably too much, but the early supplies are the result of taking advantage of opportunity to prepare and having everything in readiness for sowing.

Was sheltered ground used to the best advantage?

This point is often overlooked. In every garden there are some spots better sheltered than others, for instance, the south side of a building or fence, or the edge of a shrub border. These spots are ideal for early sowings, but later they may prove too hot or dry to use.

How did the new varieties compare with those usually grown?

No progress would be made unless new introductions were tried. Of necessity, the bulk of our seed orders must be the tried and tested varieties, but they should always include one or two not previously grown.

Did some crops do better than usual last season?

We had overcast skies and rain for much of the first half of the year and the effect on some plants was quite noticeable. Those which did better than usual were showing their preference for more moisture or a little shade from direct sun.

Was there a steady supply of vegetables from the garden?

Past experience is our only reliable guide to future sowing dates and quantities to sow.

There are many other questions. The more we can think up and answer for ourselves the better will our gardening become, provided of course, that we learn from the answers and that the answers come from carefully kept records and are not guesswork.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q. A moldy, dirty substance has made the wood siding of our house look dingy. What could it be and how can we get rid of it?—J.C.

A. It is likely that your house is afflicted with mildew, which is quite common in warm, humid climates. It discolors painted and other surfaces, masquerading sometimes as dirt, soot or dust. It should be removed before you repaint by scrubbing the discolored areas with a solution consisting of three ounces of trisodium phosphate and one quart of water. Rinse with clean water. Repaint using house and trim paint factory treated to be mildew resistant, or add a prepared mildew inhibitor to the particular paint you use.

Carpet Color Basis In Decorator Plan

By W. E. TREADWELL

Do you just dream of a colorful home or do you create one with clever scheming? You don't have to be an interior decorating expert to achieve wonderful illusions with color. It's just a question of a little thought plus some practice. A good time to pick up tips on the selection of colors for carpets, which are the basis of all color schemes, is at the present time while the local stores are showing the new season's goods.

Shade cards, carpet and fabric samples, magazine illustrations, will all help you to learn about color. In fact, you probably know more than you think, because at the very least, every woman, consciously or unconsciously, uses the rule of color in her own wardrobe.

She wears one main color—and spices it with accessory shades. She uses light and bright colors if she is slim, darker tones if she is on the plump side. All these color rules can be applied just as successfully to your own home.

A very large room can be made cozier with a carpet which has a dark background color or a small all-over pattern, while a small room will appear to be more spacious if given a cool color and wall-to-wall carpet.

PATTERN AND PLAIN

Blues, greys and greens are generally cool colors; reds, oranges and some yellows among the warm tones. Problem ceilings can be improved by the clever use of color.

If you have a ceiling which is low, try painting or papering it in a lighter tone of your carpet color. If it is too high and makes the room feel cold, a problem common to old-fashioned houses and converted flats, then introduce your light relief color on the walls, keeping a deeper shade for the ceiling and carpet.

Patterned areas should always be offset by plain areas, preferably larger, for too much pattern is confusing and restless in feeling. Do not make equal areas of color; reserve your brighter shades for small notes of color, and do have, at least, three different shades in the room to avoid monotony.

In every case of successful color planning, color is used freely, but in the right shades and correct proportions. Do not wait until the carpet is laid down and the walls painted, to find that you have used too much red or too little yellow.

WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

If any of the spring flowering bulbs still remain to be planted get them in without further delay.

Frosted wallflower plants may receive a little attention now. Cut off carefully any pieces which appear broken or limp.

Last chance to place soil and sand under cover for early seed sowing in January.

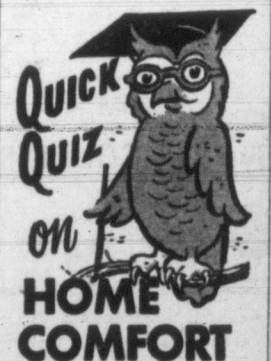

Watch for greenfly on such plants as cineraria, calceolaria, ornamental asparagus and young calla shoots. Spray with nicotine preparation.

Bulbs being grown in pots for early flowering should be brought into warmth and light gradually.

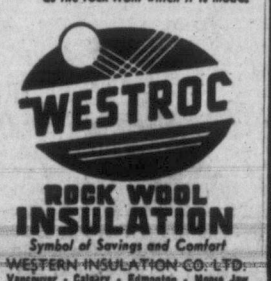

Put the root of rhubarb which was left outside to freeze into a deep box of rich soil. Place it in a dark, warm spot in greenhouse or basement.

If weather and soil permit, lay out paths, repair and build fences.

Early spring flowering shrubs, although badly damaged by frost, will have a better chance to send out new growth in spring, if given a top dressing of compost now.

- Q. What is the function of the high quality vapour barrier paper on the Westroc Rock Wool Insulation Batt?
- A. To prevent condensation in your walls and ceilings and to eliminate redecoration due to ghost marks.
- Q. How permanent and fire-proof is Westroc Rock Wool Insulation?
- A. It is as permanent and fire-proof as the rock from which it is made.

Surplus Poultry Manure Valuable to Compost Pile

By JACK BEASTALL

Q. I anticipate having large quantities of poultry manure that can be used immediately or stored in a dry place. Would there be any benefit in spreading the surplus on the soil now?

A. Spread on the soil now it to shed the rain.

would be leached by winter rains and much of its value lost. Better to dig it in to improve the soil for spring planting, or add it to the compost heap as an activator. Lacking vegetable waste to make a compost heap, store it outdoors in a wooden bin provided with a roof.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

A salmon of my acquaintance—just an ordinary run-of-the-mill salmon, neither very old nor very young—approached me the other day, seeking assistance.

This salmon said he had heard of the various Between Times' associations, dedicated to the preservation of such natural resources as Ripple Rock, Juan de Fuca Strait, and the Point Ellice Bridge.

"I have long been an admirer of the Save Ripple Rock Association," this salmon said, "and of all your other save-something-or-other associations."

Thank you for your interest, I said, modestly. "Think nothing of it," said this salmon. "I am only buttering you up in the hopes you will do something for me."

Why, I said, it would be a pleasure to do something for you, and I don't mind you buttering me up, because that will no doubt happen to you, too, eventually.

"Do not be flippant," this salmon reprimanded me. "What I wish you to do for me is, form a Save the Fraser River Association."

That is hardly necessary, I said, because when last heard from the Fraser was rivering along at a merry old pace.

"Ah, but you do not know what foul plans are afoot for the Fraser," this salmon told me. "Somebody wants to build a 700 foot high dam on the Fraser river."

That's dam high, I mean a high dam, I conceded. "But you fail to see the implications," this salmon of my acquaintance pointed out. "You ever see a fish that could jump 700 feet?" he added.

I may hope to see one, I said, but I never hope to be one.

This salmon of my acquaintance gave me a fishy eye. (I suspect he had another fishy eye in reserve, but he only gave me one.)

"Do not be flippant," he said. "This is a matter of great importance to all living salmon, not to mention the salmon yet unborn."

I don't see what you're worrying about, I said. If they build a dam, they will no doubt build a ladder for you fish, I said.

"Have you ever climbed a ladder 700 feet high?" this salmon said. "Just the thought of it makes me dizzy."

Perhaps they will install an elevator instead, I suggested.

"I am getting tired of this conversation," he said. "Will you or will you not start a Save Fraser River Association?"

I will, I said, as soon as we finish saving Ripple Rock. This salmon of my acquaintance swam away, looking not entirely satisfied.

Christmas Cooking With Karen

Most of us get so many sweet things during the Christmas season that your guests for afternoon tea are sure to appreciate it if you serve sandwiches along with the pastries and cookies. And why not make them in a different way, for instance, camouflaged as a layer cake!

For this purpose you will require a round loaf which you will possibly have to bake yourself. In that case make it the day before you are going to use it. A nine-inch round pan is a good size.

When you start the delicate operation of making your sandwich-layer cake, first carefully remove the crust with a sharp knife, and cut the loaf in thin layers.

Now spread each layer with creamed butter and stiff mayonnaise, and then spread the filling you have chosen, which could, for instance, be devilled egg between the first layers, then chopped ham, and finally thin slices of left-over turkey with lettuce.

For the "icing" of the sandwich-layer cake you may use a soft cream cheese. But if you already have a cheese filling perhaps this covering would do better:

Whip three egg yolks with a tablespoonful of butter in the double boiler until creamy, then apply while still warm.

A decoration of some sort will heighten the effect of your sandwich-layer cake, and this can be done in many ways. One of them is to adorn the cake with round slices of eggs on tender green lettuce. "Flowers" made of radishes will do nicely too.

Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club next Tuesday will open its doors to the public who want to play for Christmas turkeys.

Play starts at 7.30 p.m. in the Business and Professional Women's Club, 904 Government, preceded by the club's annual general meeting and election of officers.

Turkeys will be given both as bridge and door prizes.

Senior officers of 25 Militia Group attending a week-end tactical scheme in Vancouver include Majors A. E. Smart, H. C. P. Green, B. W. Murdoch, W. G. Bevers, F. D. Nelson, A. M. MacLeod and E. A. Stewart.

John H. Stevenson, 4985 Cordova Bay road, and Hanz Zaske, 465 Kingston, each were fined $35 or five days in jail when they appeared in city police court Friday on careless driving charges.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall suspended the licence of Stevenson, who was involved in an accident after going through a stop sign at Cook and Yates.

Zaske was involved in an accident at Kingston and Oswego Oct. 29.

Holdup Probe At Dead End, Police Say

Victoria and Oak Bay police officials said today investigations into a $10 holdup and an unsuccessful robbery attempt, both Thursday night, have come to a dead end.

No solid leads have been turned-up by investigators.

A man with a white handkerchief over his face netted about $10 at Cedar Hill Grocery, 1400 Hillside, shortly after 7 p.m. and was foiled by a quick-thinking cashier in a second attempt at Oak Bay Theatre less than an hour later.

Police say it is not the paper-bag gunman who made off with over $1,100 in four previous armed holdups in the latter part of October and early November.

The man they are searching for is described as being five feet 10 inches tall with dark hair.

Weekend Weather To Be Unsettled

An unsettled weekend with intermittent rain was predicted today by weatherman William Mackie.

"It will be mild, though," he said. "That's the only good thing about it."

A small weather disturbance off shore is causing rain along most of the coast, he said, and will continue to give showers through Sunday.

Winds today were between 20 and 35 miles per hour, and gusts reached 40 miles. They are expected to decrease by nightfall, Mr. Mackie said.

Intersection Confusion Brings $35 Fine

A mistaken belief that merging northbound traffic at Douglas and Trans-Canada Highway must stop resulted in a two-car accident and a fine of $35 for Wilfred L. Funk, 3827 Carey, in Saanich court.

Saanich police charged Funk with careless driving after he had been proceeding south on Douglas, stopped for a stop sign at Trans-Canada Highway, pulled out into the intersection and became involved in an accident.

Funk said that since the new Carey Road bridge opened the traffic sign previously on the highway has been moved and placed on Douglas.

He said he had thought that northbound traffic on Douglas also had to stop.

Total damages in the accident were $550.

Police Puzzle Man's Identity In Street Death

Coat Label Being Checked

City police, puzzled over identity of a man who died on a downtown street Thursday night, were checking a coat label today in an attempt to determine his name.

The man was found in front of the old post office on Government Street shortly after 9 p.m. Thursday and was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital, where he was taken by police.

There were no papers or other articles on his person to establish identity.

Police found $19.48 in cash, a pass key, package of gum and a package of cigarettes in his pockets. He did not have a wallet.

Police say there is no suspicion of foul play. They have not yet received a report of a post mortem held to determine cause of death.

The man is described as five feet, seven inches tall, 200 pounds, grey hair, between 45 and 50 years of age. He was well dressed, wearing a blue raincoat, blue suit, coat, blue shirt and tie, brown trousers, socks and black shoes.

Tug Bucks Gale On Last Stretch

Record Tow 200 Miles From Finish

Men of HMCS Naden embarked on an ambitious journalistic venture this week with the publication of the first issue of the new Naden newspaper, The Lookout. Here Able Wren Cecile Foster, medical assistant at Naden Hospital, compares the new paper with its mimeographed predecessor, Totem. The Lookout will be published every second week. (RCN Photo.)

The Victoria tug, Sudbury, and her tow, the disabled Greek freighter Makedonia, are today bucking a fresh gale off the northeast coast of Vancouver Island, with about 200 miles to go on the 3,100-mile tow to Vancouver.

Winds from the southeast of over 40 miles per hour are slowing progress, but tug and tow are expected to reach Port Sunday evening or Monday morning.

Tide and wind conditions when they reach the narrow and treacherous Seymour Narrows will decide arrival time. If conditions are right, they will steam right through, reaching Vancouver Sunday; if they have to wait out the tide, they will be delayed six or seven hours.

Tug and freighter have battled a succession of storms across the North Pacific and Gulf of Alaska from the point near Kamchatka Peninsula where the freighter broke down.

"PRETTY RUGGED"

Capt. Harley Blagborne of Sudbury said by radio-telephone this morning:

"It's been pretty rugged for all of us all the way through. Waves were often so high we couldn't see the freighter from the Sudbury."

He said he was in constant telephone communication with the captain of the freighter.

Two B.C. pilots, Capt. S. G. Hunter and Capt. William Olsen, are on the bridge of the Makedonia, navigating through the narrow channels of the Inside Passage.

They cleared Christie Passage, near Port Alexander, this morning.

When completed, the Makedonia tow will set a new record for long-distance salvage tows in the North Pacific.

Former record of 2,700 miles was set in April, 1929, by another Victoria tug, the original Salvage King, Capt. J. M. Hewison. She towed the freighter Havilah, loaded with 4,000,000 feet of lumber, from Dutch Harbor, Alaska, to Osaka, Japan.

Havilah's machinery broke down and she just managed to limp into Dutch Harbor. Salvage King was dispatched from Victoria under orders of the owners to take the freighter to Japan, where she was unloaded and broken up for scrap.

National Marketing Parley Seen

William MacGillivray, B.C.'s deputy minister of agriculture, said today federal Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner has indicated he is prepared to call a conference of provincial ministers to formulate a national marketing policy.

Mr. MacGillivray returned today from the federal-provincial agriculture conference in Ottawa. He said the meeting, at which both government and the industry were represented, was "very worthwhile."

"Nothing conclusive was reached, but I feel we gained a much better understanding of the problems," he said.

Mr. MacGillivray said Mr. Gardiner likely will contact the provincial ministers to determine whether they could attend a ministers' conference before the opening of Commons on Jan. 12.

"Such a conference would have to be examined in the light of other commitments," he said. "It might have to be deferred until Easter."

S. J. Willis Concert To Play Again Monday

A student program of music, singing, skits and magic, which drew a crowd of 700 to S. J. Willis Junior High School Friday night, will be repeated Monday at 8 p.m.

Last year 1,300 persons saw the school Christmas concert but fire regulations limited the audience at the Friday performance.

Officials called the first performance a "terrific success."

ASK The TIMES

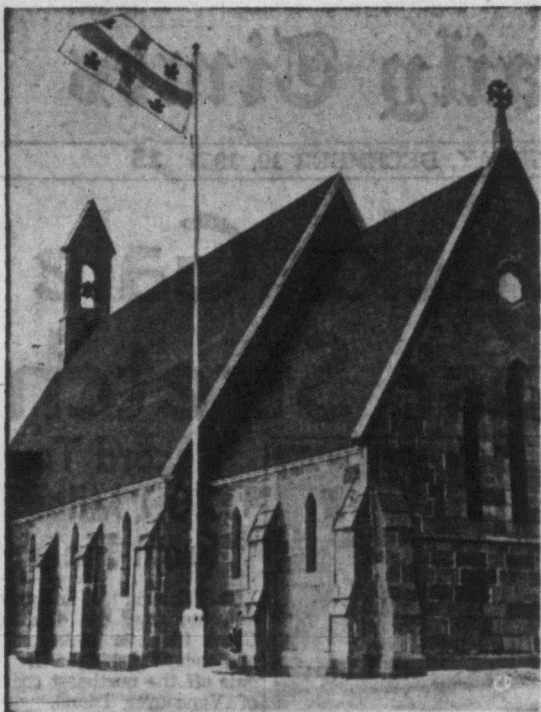

Q.—On several occasions I have noticed, when making bank deposits on Friday evenings, that the deposit will be posted in the passbook to the following Monday or even later. This often results in the deposit recorded as made in the next month, or after a check has been drawn on the account, which presumably means a loss of interest. Since the hours of 4.30 p.m. on Fridays are bank business hours, is this practice legal or just a little unethical?—B. J. A.—This column has always been as a rule that it will not answer legal questions. Recording a fact, however, it may be stated that under regulations governing all banks throughout Canada for some two years at least, transactions during extended hours (in Victoria 4.30 to 6 p.m. on Fridays) are carried forward to the next regular business day.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not under take to solve conundrums.

Foster Homes Needed Here for Teen-Agers

By TONY DICKASON

It's tough, and sometimes downright rotten, children must have foster homes, but need them they do.

When youngsters are baby-sitting and cute the Family and Children's Service here finds little trouble placing the tots; but when boys and girls reach their teens, then the proposition of placement becomes rough.

Today, for example, the FCS has a half-dozen teen-aged boys who need homes. Some are in foster homes now, have not adjusted, so a change is needed. Ages of these lads range from 12 to 15. They come from split homes, or from parents who have simply disappeared.

Dave Woodsworth of the FCS here explains briefly why some of the boys need new homes: "If the foster-parents are the right type for the youngster, he'll change for the better. You can see them changing in a month."

Some of the boys have been running away from foster homes. This is because they get too much affection—boys don't generally go for this to a great extent; they feel smothered—or too little—for even teen-aged boys need to be mothered.

Proper foster homes, and it is difficult to always determine the one in which a boy can adapt successfully, unlock the door of the lad's personality. Most such boys are confused, have lost their sense of identity and attachment. Proper foster parents can return these.

Foster parents need not be startled by parental background of their charges. Youth inherits structure from parents, but not social behavior. This is acquired, and is the responsibility of the foster home.

In Victoria today there exists "a bad shortage" of would-be foster parents to look after the teen agers on hand. Expenses of the boys are paid by the FCS—foster parents make no money on their boys, but they can achieve the satisfaction of taking a suffering and upset youngster, and seeing his personality made entire again.

No neurotics need apply for the job.

There's George, for instance. He's 12; parents are separated. The mother works and as a result the lad is running loose. He's unhappy, knows what has happened between his parents, but isn't old enough to understand why. He's been in FCS care a month, but needs more permanent placement.

Foster homes need not be fancy, just relaxed and comfortable with adults who like to give vent to their humanity, and are in a position to do so.

A great deal of time, thought and money is given to the health of children physically, and perhaps too little to their emotional adjustments. It is, at least, as important as physical drawbacks.

The FCS is not an erratic performer, with a few misfits under a wing. It handles administration of nearly 300 youngsters in this area in foster homes.

MRA Lauded By Famed Explorer

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP)—Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd, leader of the U.S. expedition to the Antarctic, said today on the eve of his departure that Moral Rearmament is a force which can unite men of all creeds, colors and races to answer the divisive forces of materialism.

He issued a statement declaring that in the last 15 years he has "watched with great satisfaction the unique progress that this force has made, and more particularly during the last few years."

"The application of this spiritual force to many prospective danger spots has turned disunity into harmony and set a star of hope. MRA, I am convinced, is an ideology in which all men could enlist with the full confidence that it is a powerful spiritual force that is so desperately needed in the world today."

To inspire elevating ideals, and to preserve our priceless heritage, Dr. J. B. Rowell at Central Baptist, will seek to maintain the challenging concept, "Keep Christ in Christ," as he continues his Sunday evening series in Central Baptist Church entitled "The Greatness of Jesus Christ," the subject being "Greater Than Jonah." At the morning service at 11 a.m. his message will be "Silent—Unto Him Shall the Gathering of the People Be."

At Emmanuel Baptist Church the pastor, Rev. James E. Smith, will bring pre-Christmas messages morning and evening. The morning topic "Voices in a Wilderness," and the evening subject "Cut Off From the Sky."

The city-wide CGIT Christmas service will be held at 3 p.m. in Centennial United Church with music by the choir of First United.

Guest speaker at the morning service at Centennial will be Dr. R. M. Thompson, formerly of Edmonton, now associated with First United, Victoria. His sermon topic will be "Ye Shall Be Witnesses." At the evening service the minister, Rev. Douglas B. Carr, will preach on "The Book of the Month—1 Samuel."

Anniversary At Langford

The congregation of Langford United Church will observe its fourth anniversary on Sunday. The guest preacher will be Rev. Douglas Carr of Centennial United.

In December, 1951, Rev. H. P. Davidson conducted the first service in the Community Hall, and in December, 1954, the first sod was turned for the new edifice situated on the Island Drive.

Since late in October of this year the congregation has been worshipping in the Fellowship Hall which is part of the new building.

Work is proceeding at a good pace on the completion of the structure, and it is hoped it will be ready for dedication early in the coming year.

Pope's Own Story of Christ Vision Published in Vatican Newspaper

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—The official Vatican newspaper today broke three weeks of silence on reports of a vision of Christ experienced by Pope Pius a year ago, and affirmed that it led to a miraculous cure of the grave illness from which the Pope was then suffering.

The newspaper Osservatore Romano until today had remained silent on the subject of the vision, first report by an Italian weekly paper last month.

In a 2,500-word article, the newspaper discloses that the Pope himself announced the vision a few hours after it occurred to one of the small group of people admitted to his sickroom.

"Entering the room of the Holy Father about nine o'clock on the morning of Dec. 2 (1954) the visitor had scarcely knelt to express maternal good wishes when, as the only answer, he heard the Holy Father exclaim: 'This morning I saw the Lord.'"

"(The Holy Father) added that the previous day he heard a voice of great clarity announce distinctly: 'There will come a vision.'"

"The following morning Dec. 2, while the Holy Father was repeating the invocation, taken from the prayer Anima Christi: 'In the hour of my death, call me, the Lord came and stayed by him.'"

"In that moment His Holiness immediately thought of the passage from the Gospel of Saint John: 'The Master is present and calls thee, and so he uttered the succeeding verse of the Anima Christi prayer: "And order me to come to Thee."

RELEASES ALL DETAILS
"Every detail was related by the Holy Father with admirable freshness and clarity of mind."

"It should be added that, notwithstanding afforded to the invalid, nobody was present in the room of His Holiness at that solemn moment. Only some members of his household were gathered in the next room."

Beat the drum for these glamorous at home slippers. Designed by O'Omphies in gold kid.

In Step With Style

By NONA DAMASKE

"Festive Footwear"—Slippers under the tree have always been a tradition in our family... there is just something about a new pair of slippers to wear on Christmas morning. The choice this year seems to run the full gamut. If you wear smart velvet tapered trousers there are oriental style flat heel slippers in velvet of many colors; luxuriously jewelled in pearl, rhinestone and gold. Flip-flop mules in gay shades for the lady who just wishes to cover her toes. Beautiful Danial Green house shoes with a Cuban heel are an everlasting favorite with many women. A really cozy moccasin style for the gal with cold feet is shown in red, brown, natural, and pastel blue. These foam-cushion sole slippers have a white woolly trim and look "oh so comfy."

An ideal gift item is a new travel slipper imported from Europe. The slippers and case are of simulated lizard and come complete with a matching shoehorn.

Rest your toes over the holidays in pretty slippers.

PLEASURE

The dressy, elegant, lighter shoe is one that will be underfoot for the coming gay holiday season. There is a new viewpoint to footwear fashion and it is focused on the heel. Going or coming, your shoe will be eye catching. One pair I noticed particularly was named "Glass Slipper." A clear lucite heel, a lucite toe bow, a band of rhinestones and a little black suede all combine to make "Glass Slipper" a real "Scene Stealer."

Rich black ringlette satin is used in a classic opera pump with a matching clutch bag. The simplicity of the opera pump appeals to many women who feel more at ease in a shoe that has a closed toe and heel.

Shoes to match your gown will give you a wonderful just right look. I saw a dainty white satin sandal dotted with rhinestones. Dye these and the rhinestones remain bright and sparkling. White brocade pumps with stiletto heel may be tinted 120 shades. Tap your toes in triumph over the holidays in festive footwear.

THE QUESTION BOX

Dear Miss L.A.—I think, considering your mother's age and weight, a full-length gown would be most becoming for the occasion of your wedding.

Doting Mother Risks Marriage and Child

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

A little child models his life along the lines set by his mother. This can be good or harmful.

(Q)—"My sister has only one child, a son, whom she adores. She is so devoted to him, she pays little attention to her husband and his wants or interests. The child must come first. My brother-in-law is getting fed up with this situation and I wouldn't be surprised if he found another woman who showed more interest in him. I have tried to point out to my sister she is not only in danger of losing her husband but also is spoiling her child to the point where no woman could ever live with him."

(A)—As far as your sister's husband is concerned, your opinion of the possible outcome of the marriage is similar to mine. No man wants to play second fiddle to his child all the time. Sooner or later he will find someone who will allow him to play first fiddle for a change.

The pattern your sister is setting for her son is equally bad. She is showing him a picture of family life in which the woman idolizes the child and puts him in first place. When he grows up and begins to think of a home of his own, he will expect to follow the path already established by his mother.

He will not be a doting parent. Instead, he will expect his future wife to act as his mother, and he will be dependent on her for his every whim.

As a child grows up, he becomes accustomed to an example of life set by his parents. As the mother is in the home more than the father, the pattern she sets has a greater influence on the child. Your sister is setting a pattern for her child that will doom him to trouble in the future.

Elizabeth Hurlock will answer your personal questions. Address her in care of this newspaper.

Half the fun of presents is the guessing, rattling and shaking of parcels, much to the amusement of the rest of the family. The final reward, though, for the person giving the present, is the look of delight that passes over the face of the recipient. Then, and only then, you know that you've chosen the right gift.

Perhaps I can help you out on the real stickler of a present for the very modern Miss, who likes to be right up-to-the-minute in her clothes stylings. Glancing through fashion magazines, you've probably seen the comfortable, mannish shirts that have caught on with the fashion world. Worn open-necked, these shirts take on a new look, and a very fashionable one, with the soft turtle neck inserts.

In pale blue, white, navy, yellow or grey, they tuck inside the collar of the shirt, and give the appearance of a turtle-neck sweater underneath, but without the bulkiness. They're all the rage with university groups, and give an interesting sporty look to a casual skirt-and-blouse outfit. Wear 'em with slacks, your Bermudas or a straight-cut skirt for an effect straight out of Vogue. They're of the softest wool, and cost $3.50.

Christmas time is best time for parties, you'll find, and we women just love an excuse to dress up! Whether it's an evening party, an afternoon gathering, or a social coffee party, a bright bejeweled collar on that favorite basic dress is just right. Embroidered on a delicate net background is an all-over patterned collar made of tiny beads, such as you'll find in Indian art work. These collars are in pale pink, blue or white, and are trimmed with contrasting pastel. They, too, would be welcomed gifts for milady. Another collar is a mass of Christmas-green sequins. They range from $3.50 to $5.

Still searching for the perfect gifts for some friends? How about the young couple, still in the process of stocking a house or apartment? Have they their steak knives yet? If not, here's your opportunity to buy exceptionally attractive ones at a very low price. For $2.99 you can buy six knives, with amber handles and stainless steel blades. They're packed ready for giving. For a larger gift, a three-piece carving set, with the knives, all matching, costs $7.95. The carving set alone costs $4.99. Another set of dinner knives, in a set of six, has solid bone handles, and cost $5. Matching carving sets may also be bought at reasonable prices.

Clear Cut Picture of Civic Needs Held by New Woman Alderman

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Named an alderman of the City of Victoria in last Thursday's election, Mrs. Lily Wilson brings to the council a wide knowledge of the mechanics and the needs of civic government. She is following in the footsteps of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Christie, who served on city council for 10 years. As an only daughter, she has been very close to Mrs. Christie and directly or indirectly, has made many of the interests and the aims of that public-spirited woman her own.

With this sound foundation, Lily Wilson will now create her own place in the civic life of the city and in the doing you can be sure that the aged and the poor will find a champion.

Born in London, Eng., and brought up as a small child in Aberdeen, Scotland, Lily Wilson came to Victoria with her parents in her early girlhood. She attended school in this city and was active in young people's groups of the First Presbyterian Church, later the First United Church.

She met her husband, W. H. Wilson, now a retired school principal, in Victoria; was married here and has lived all her married life in the city. The Wilsons have two daughters, Mrs. Kenneth Wardrop, wife of the Canadian consul at Los Angeles, and Miss Marjorie Wilson, a high school teacher in North Vancouver.

While home and friends have always played a major part in her life, the city's new alderman has also found time to enter into club and service work. She is a past president of the Victoria Women's Canadian Club; president of the Victoria Citizenship Council, and a member of the executive of the Victoria Community Welfare Council.

Music and Highland dancing have also been among her interests, and in her younger years she was much in demand as a singer and a dancer. A gold medalist in one of the earlier musical festivals in the city, is representative of the citizens of Victoria, unless you elect a woman to that council.

The sisters accepted that challenge and elected Mrs. Wilson. In her hands has been placed the women's point of view in council affairs.

With the knowledge gained from her mother, coupled with her own ideas what she would like to see done to improve conditions in the city, Lily Wilson will give a good account of her civic trust in the next two years.

C (To put in time)

(A PLUS) "REBEL WITH-OUT A CAUSE" (Royal)—The primary point of Warner's "Rebel Without a Cause" is that juvenile delinquency isn't necessarily peculiar to children reared in the gutter, the tenement and the broken home. It can also be spawned in the manors of the respectable well-to-do and well-meaning.

Take the case of James Dean. When he is picked up by the authorities he is higher than a kite and outwardly cynically amused by the row he has caused but mostly by the fact that his respectable father, mother and grandmother have had to appear to bail him out.

But alone in the office of a juvenile counsellor the boy breaks down and admits that his family is "a circus."

IT APPEARS THAT HIS agitation stems mostly from the fact that his father, Jim Bacus, won't stand up to his mother and has become a mere doormat for her demands. "Why are you always running away from me?" he screams at his parents once. And well he might. For whenever he gets into one of his jams the family picks up and moves to another city where his escapades aren't known.

At his new high school he runs afoul of a tough young clique during his first day. It ends in a switch knife duel between himself and the leader of the gang, in spite of Dean doing everything possible to fight with his fists rather than a knife because "I don't want any trouble." After being pinked by his opponent several times the boy manages to disarm his overly confident adversary. That night he is invited to run a "chicken run" against the tough.

REALIZING HE IS IN serious trouble he attempts to invite the confidence of his father. But father refuses to face up to the fact that the "chicken run" has become a point of honor and attempts to rationalize and evade the issue. The heart-broken youth runs from the house and later that evening drives a stolen auto in competition with the school gang leader to the brink of a cliff, the idea being that the first to jump from his car is a chicken. Dean

Chest Agency Seeking Needy Families

Know a needy family? Know an old age pensioner, someone in failing health, a cripple or a blind person? Know anybody who might be overlooked this Christmas?

The Community Chest Christmas Bureau which co-ordinates spreading of Christmas cheer has so far listed only 35 families and individuals who will be helped with hampers of food, clothing or toys. But last year 327 families received Christmas surprises.

Service clubs, social groups, churches and other organizations should contact Christmas Bureau (Spencer House), 2-5121, if they have names of needy persons. Last year 105 local organizations funneled this work through the Christmas Bureau.

Names will be accepted until Dec. 21. They will be allocated to various welfare organizations to ensure that no worthy case is overlooked and that no duplication of effort take place.

escapes but the other lad plunges to his death. What then? The rest of the gang has fled but should he go to the police? He asks his parents. Both his mother and father tell him no, that it would be foolish to volunteer. Seeing them for what they are Dean goes to the police but before the sad story ends an innocent boy has been shot to death, another youth wounded and misery is complete.

IT IS DIFFICULT TO write of James Dean now that he is dead, killed a few months ago in a car crash at the age of 24 after he had received the plaudits of theatre-goers everywhere for his powerful acting in "East of Eden." Even in death his name is being mentioned for Academy Award honors in the spring. Therefore, it is enough to say here that he was a young man who possessed qualities that might have made him one day into a great actor.

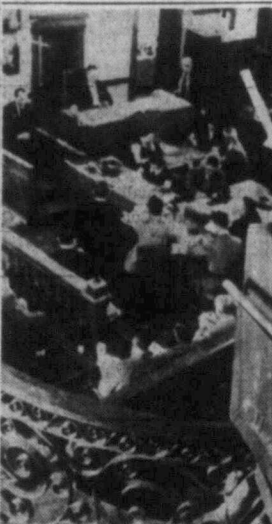

Others in the cast, notably Natalie Wood, Backus and Sal Mineo also performed admirably. If there was a flaw in the whole it was in the difficulty believing that apparent trifles would drive the juveniles to such measures of thoughtlessness and cynicism. This, in spite of the fact that it is acknowledged that small, unintentional hurts bottled up in the minds and hearts of the young can do harm if the children are not well adjusted in the first instance.

So said Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Newnham of Melbourne, Australia, now on the last leg of a 14-month world lecture tour. They addressed the English Speaking Union here Friday night in the Ewing building, Victoria College.

Cricket is so popular in the area of the remote northern India pass, said Mr. Newnham, who works with the Australian Broadcasting Commission, that natives there are often named after outstanding cricketers, such as Bradman, Miller and Hutton.

Hospital Soon For Nanaimo?

Health Minister Eric Martin Confers With Board on Sites for New Institution

NANAIMO—B.C. Health Minister Eric Martin told a Social Credit group meeting at Plaza Hotel Friday he held high hopes that Nanaimo might soon be embarked on the building of a badly needed new hospital.

Earlier in the day Mr. Martin discussed with the hospital board sites and other problems blocking immediate start on the proposed hospital.

Russell Inkster, chairman of the Nanaimo hospital board, said they "look forward optimistically to the mechanics of clearing the way for plans and construction of a new building."

The board, with the help of Chamber of Commerce, have selected "several suitable sites," but is, as yet, unable to divulge exact locations. Mr. Martin praised the Nanaimo hospital board and described it "as a cut above the average board which had given his government maximum economy with efficiency."

He listed the inherent difficulties in establishing a large hospital here which includes suitable grounds. He said since the sites would likely be in "unorganized district" the problems would automatically come under the Water Act. Through countless amendments over the years he said "the Water Act has in some respects become more important than the Municipal Act." He hinted that "sweeping changes in the acts affecting hospitals are in the making."

Wages Take 72c of Hospital Dollar

Describing some of the problems confronting hospitals generally in B.C. Mr. Martin pointed out that the highest wages in Canada are paid personnel in this province. "They work shorter hours; there are more employees per patient; nurses receive longest holidays (and rightly so) and cost of hospitals per head in B.C. per year now stands at $24 against $14 for the rest of Canada."

Speaking of hospital costs throughout the province, Mr. Martin said they are the most expensive item in B.C.'s economy. Wages cost 72 cents of every dollar. The remaining 28 cents must meet all other costs. "If current trends keep up wages will take the rest of that 28 cents," he indicated.

One of the big problems in financing hospitals, he said, is the fact that the government budgets on a fiscal year while hospitals all across Canada work on a calendar year. "The result is that the hospitals don't know until May how much they will receive for the year's expenses." He said he hoped a solution to that problem would be worked out.

Salk Vaccine 'Tremendous Success'

"We can thank God for the Salk vaccine," the minister said.

Some 50,000 children had received the vaccine—which had been "checked, double checked and checked again"—and results "have been wonderful." There had not been a single case. Normal expectation, without vaccination, would have been 38 cases.

He said of the half-million Canadian children who had received the Salk treatment in Canada, only two or possibly three individuals had contracted polio. "And there is a possibility they may have contracted the dread disease before they received the vaccination. . . . We can go ahead in this tremendous program of vaccination with the sure knowledge of success."

Supreme Court Delays Action In Coffin Case

OTTAWA (BUP)—Wilbert Coffin, doomed to hang Feb. 10 for the murder of an American hunter, will not know his fate for several weeks.

The supreme court Friday reserved its opinion in the case, after rejecting an application by the Quebec attorney-general's department to ignore a federal cabinet order-in-council to review the case.

The unique supreme court hearing asked for by the federal cabinet in an unprecedented order-in-council, ended after a five-day sitting. Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin handed down the court's decision after submissions for a retrial had been completed by Coffin's attorney, Arthur Maloney of Toronto.

Annacis Land Sale Suit Settled

VANCOUVER (CP)—A two-year court battle was settled here when $50,000 was accepted for the 45-acre Annacis island farm of Mrs. Hilda Falk, 87.

Gilbert J. Hardman of Eagle Harbor obtained an option on the farm 2½ years ago.

He was acting as representative of the estate of the Duke of Westminster which is developing Annacis island as an industrial estate. Mrs. Falk's two daughters contended their mother was not mentally competent to give the option and claimed the property was worth much more.

The Court of Appeal upheld a B.C. Supreme Court decision that $50,000 was more than fair and the solicitor for the Falk family Thursday abandoned plans to go to the Supreme Court of Canada.

exist in Ceylon against Indians. Mr. Newnham said it seemed to be a question of money. Natives didn't take too kindly to the idea of their wealth going out of the country.

British stock in Asia has risen since the war, the pair agreed, and there now exists "very little anti-British feeling." However, they indicated this was not altogether the case concerning the United States.

U.S. reception he termed "mixed. There is a suspicion of the U.S., rightly or wrongly." There was the feeling, they said, among Asians they were being used as possible pawns in the struggle between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R.

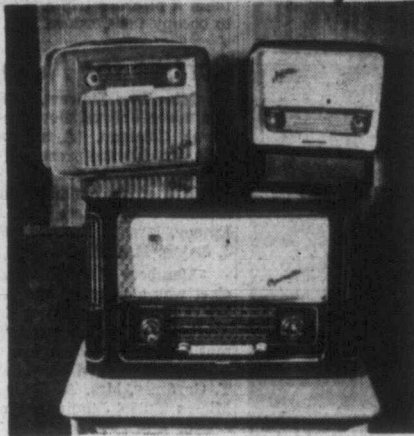

Plaudits and cheers of the Indian people and press during the current visit of Soviet leaders, Bulganin and Khrushchev, they called a "normal reaction. They are big figures, and were greeted as such." Garlands hung around necks of the Soviet leaders was also normal hospitality.

British feeling in South Africa today was to get more Britons into politics to try and help ease the segregation policy of the largely Boer government, he affirmed.

If British representation had "greater power, there would be greater tolerance."

Influx of South Africa's educated blacks to England, given headlines in the press as possible cause of a color problem there, he poo-pooed. "It's negligible."

Both plan to write books on their return to Australia; he on the trip generally and she a group of stories on out-of-the-way places for children. The Newnham's both feel there is too little exchange of literature and the arts between Canada and Australia, and advocated an exchange of lectures and publications to familiarize the Commonwealth countries with each other's work in this direction.

BUSINESS DIARY

B.C. Chances Good In Westcoast Gas

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

If seems likely that investors in B.C. and Alberta will get first chance at most of the $4,000,000 in debentures and share units of Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd. to be made available in Canada early in the New Year.

Total offering to be made in Canada and the U.S. will consist of $20,500,000 in subordinate debentures and 615,000 common shares to be offered in a package of one $100 debenture plus three common shares at a total price of $115 per unit.

As the Westcoast natural gas pipeline will draw on the gas reserves of northeastern B.C. and northwestern Alberta, a syndicate of Western Canada investment dealers is being set up to make a distribution of a large portion of the total Canadian offering.

Of the 25,000,000 common shares authorized by Canadian Act of Parliament, Westcoast will have 4,511,000 shares outstanding on completion of its financing.

These will include shares to be allocated to the sponsoring companies and the 615,000 shares being offered in the debenture-stock package.

It is understood that there is no intention at present of making available for public subscription any of the equity shares other than those to be sold with the debentures.

PRESIDENT TWICE OVER

Vancouver engineer John E. Liersch seems to be assuming more and more responsibilities in Victoria last weekend, Mr. Liersch became president of the Association of Professional Engineers of B.C.

In Portland today he was elected president of the Western Forestry and Conservative Association.

tion at the close of its 46th annual conference.

An energetic propagandist for the training of more engineers in Canada, Mr. Liersch is also a vice-president of the Powell River Co.

COME TO CANADA

Down in San Francisco, British war hero General Sir Overy Roberts is making a frank effort to woo American manufacturers to Canada.

General Roberts is director of Annacis Industrial Estate, 1,200-acre island tract in the Fraser River, 14 miles from Vancouver. The land is owned by Grosvenor Estates of London and is called the largest leasehold development in the world.

Already, he says, nine tenants have signed agreements, including International Business Machines and Stanley Doors, a subsidiary of Stanley Works of Connecticut.

Total value of cheques exchanged at Victoria Clearing House jumped over the $10,000,000 mark once again during the week ending Dec. 8 with $10,169,831.

This compared with $3,671,856 in the corresponding week of 1954.

MONEY FOR CHRISTMAS

U.S. federal reserve credit controllers have begun to supply the money market with funds needed each year just before Christmas.

During the week ending Wednesday the reserve system bought $363,000,000 of government securities on the open market.

Such purchases build up bank reserves making additional funds available for lending. Loans by leading New York banks continued to climb. They went up $20,000,000 in the latest period for a new record of $9,053,000,000.

Ald. Youngs was replying to a statement by Frank Calder, CCF member of the legislature for Atlin, in which he said the fishing grounds would suffer from muck and residue from a smelter.

Splurge of Christmas Spending Sustains 1955 Business Boom

By WALTER BREEDER JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—An unprecedented burst of Christmas spending put new life in the business boom this week.

Everybody, it seemed, was in the chips.

Personal income, at latest count, was at an annual rate of $39,500,000,000. That's a gain of more than $21,000,000,000 in just one year.

Jobs were plentiful. Despite seasonal layoffs in farming and construction, nearly 65,000,000 Americans had steady work.

Stockholders had cause for cheer. Cash dividends at latest report were running 9 1/2 per cent ahead of last year.

Business was in a free spending mood, too. Government experts said spending by business firms would show a thumping gain next year. In the first three months of 1956, said the U.S. commerce department, companies will be shelling out money for new plant and equipment at the rate of $31,500,000,000 a year. This year's spending came to around $28,500,000,000.

RECORD SPENDING

Most striking evidence of the pre-Christmas surge, of course, was at the retail level. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce said record Christmas spending in department stores and specialty shops would boost the United States' 1955 retail trade to a record high of $185,000,000,000.

In steel, it was the same old story: Production (currently scheduled at 98.8 per cent of capacity) falling behind demand, consumers scrambling for scarce supplies. At Chicago, the price of steel scrap jumped $3 a ton.

Want to buy a new car? They're starting to pile up in dealers' lots, say Detroit sources. The auto industry has just wound up the second biggest production week in its history.

Lagging sales of new cars were among the few dark spots this week, another was the prospect of a dip next year in "on-the-cuff" buying of consumer goods. Much of this year's boom has been financed by instalment purchases.

Some economists say instalment buyers are carrying just about as much debt as they can stand.

Mines Revive Market Trade

By PATRICK FELLOWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There were indications this week on the Toronto and Montreal stock exchanges that revival of interest in mining issues is under way.

At Toronto, sales rose gradually throughout the week, most of the increased volume being accounted for in the mines section. Montreal's figures for mines shares traded was more than 4,500,000, well ahead of the previous week's total of a little more than 3,000,000.

The emphasis generally was in copper prospects. Underwritings and reports from properties were responsible for some lively dealings, particularly in the lower-price bracket.

URANIUM REVIEW

Uranium came to life Friday with selected issues gaining smartly. A review of uranium stocks issued from the office of Draper, Dobie and Co., Toronto stock brokers, said uranium now are testing the lows made in the middle of August and are approaching levels at which they merit buying consideration.

The review says "a period of consolidation and appraisal of the whole uranium situation that now exists has replaced the speculative fervor experienced earlier in the year."

"Technically the market is in perfect condition to respond to any good news and anyone who sells now will do so because he has lost faith in the uranium future."

Industrials opened the week with an all-round advance. On the New York stock exchange, the market, measured in terms of The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, finally made up the $20,000,000,000 book loss suffered in the three major market breaks of September and October.

A MILD DECLINE

New York made little headway for the remainder of the week. Toronto plodded ahead but ran out of steam by Friday when a mild decline set in. Although Toronto gained about 4 1/2 points on the exchange index, it was still less than half way back to its September highs, in index terms. Base

Air Service For Flowers May Improve

Hopes for better trans-Canada air freight services were strengthened by W. J. Dalby, western sales manager of Trans-Canada Air Lines, at the first day of a two-day convention.

Growers complained that it was impossible for some of their cut flowers to reach prairie cities in time for daily market because there are too few freight planes going east.

Mr. Dalby said his company "is very interested in the growers" and that the situation will probably be remedied next June with additional aircraft.

Members of the federation also disagree with the rate based on 266 cubic inches per pound in the case of holly, carnation and chrysanthemum shipments which are very bulky and weigh little. They don't think 266 is enough.

Mr. Dalby explained that the freight rate is based on other airlines' experience and is in effect over most of North America. He said he would look into the possibility of a different classification.

Mr. Williston Acts

THE COWICHAN LEADER—Something new has been added to the municipal election scene this year. It is the holding of an election for trustees in the unorganized area on the same basis as trustees are elected within municipalities.

The provincial unorganized area south of Cowichan River to Bamerton and west of Duncan to Sahtlam, is thus taking what virtually amounts to a step toward municipal status, although legally and formally there is perhaps no such intention on the part of the area's 2,400 enrolled voters.

The decision to abolish the rural representatives, from whose number the required rural trustees for the board of Cowichan School District No. 65 were chosen by the combined representatives themselves, is the government's solution of an impossible situation which had arisen.

It becomes clear to all now that the former separate school attendance areas, 11 in all, each with separate representatives, with two for Shawnigan and one appointed by B.C. Cement Co., Bamerton, had outlived their usefulness here.

The population of the southern part of Cowichan has grown to the point where the former system breaks down. Separate attendance areas, in effect, had merged. The climax came with the recent packed Cobble Hill meeting, creating a situation which the government had no legislation to overcome.

It required passage of an order-in-council to set the matter straight. Mr. Williston has not allowed a confused situation to become even more confused by failing to take decisive action. He has acted and, in the operation of the new system of election at large, it is hoped the unorganized area realizes that in this respect it enjoys full equality with municipal ratepayers of Duncan and North Cowichan.

United Appeal

COMOX DISTRICT FREE PRESS—The groundwork for the start of a united appeal for charitable donations has been laid here; the idea has been approved in principle by a number of people who took the trouble to attend the public meeting and now the rest is up to the donors.

We have always felt that the manner of giving to charity was for the givers to decide and that the collecting agencies should accept that.

If the people of this area prefer, and we feel that they do, to give once and give for all, then let them make their opinions known.

A number of times in the past the Free Press has urged the institution of the united appeal system and now, after several editorials, a start has been made. Interest in the united appeal was aroused to the point where the chamber of commerce sponsored last week's public meeting.

The matter has been brought to a head. Now it is up to those who want to give once and give for all to support the committee set up to put the united appeal plan into effect.

Cost of a New Hospital

THE COWICHAN LEADER—The financial implications of the proposed hospital district to be centred upon Duncan are bringing questions from various quarters. At the same time, the meetings which have been held to date have evinced considerable interest and not a little support for this method of financing a new King's Daughters' hospital. Members of the development committee are to be commended on the service they are giving to acquaint the public with our acute hospital needs.

One of the more unsatisfactory features of the new scheme is that the improvement district is to assume responsibility for operating deficits of the hospital. Among other things, this could offer considerable scope for union leaders and could lead to unreasonable wage demands. The unorganized-area taxpayers must realize, however, that it will be the function of their hospital trustees, as board representatives, to watch out for this sort of thing.

There is also the final cost of a new KDH. We are at present dealing only with the first phase, although the most costly, it is true. There are several more phases after this first one before we get an entirely new institution.

As needs cannot be forecast accurately, the second phase might be closer than we think and, after it, the third and final phase. It is right that these and other points should be aired. Full and frank discussion offers the best means of cleaning up doubtful points. Committee members are anxious that they be cleared up.

Eyewitnesses said they heard a terrific "whoosh" as the safety valves of two gasoline tanks blew out.

The force of the upward blast prevented flames from spreading further, a fireman said.

The fire broke out at a plant operated by B.C. Packers Ltd. when boiling crude oil, being used to lubricate a conveyor chain, ignited.

The 24-year-old building, a bunkhouse and nearby wharves were burned to the ground.

No one was injured in the fire.

Caretaker Thor Jacobson lost all his personal belongings but managed to save his small dog. Engineer D. Cousineau lost his car which was kept in a shed adjoining the main building, which also was destroyed.

The plant, which salts herring for export, suspended production this year because of poor market conditions, and workmen were oiling machinery and equipment for their protection in preparation for winter when the fire started.

Officials of B.C. Packers flew to the scene from Vancouver. Company officials said it was doubtful that the plant would be rebuilt.

Saanich Voting Heavy

Esquimalt, Oak Bay Light

For Municipal Election results phone the Times tonight at 2-3131.

An aroused public swarmed to the polls in Saanich today to settle the hottest pre-election battle for reeveship that the municipality has experienced in many years.

A new record vote was indicated at noon. But in Saanich and Oak Bay only normal response was recorded.

Saanich deputy returning officer Gordon Hayward said, "voting has been heavier than we've ever seen it before."

He said balloting started slowly but picked up at 9 a.m. In other years the bulk of voters appeared in the afternoon.

Reeve Joseph Casey, Arthur Ash and George Clayton have been embroiled in civic differences before excited campaign audiences. The fight was heated by a pre-election disclosure of a $595,488 deficit in a long-term sewer building plan. Another big issue was lack of records in municipal gravel pit dealings.

TOP VICTORIA?

Due to the large number of polls in Saanich (there are 13) no total of persons who had voted at noon was available. There are 18,573 eligible voters. If, as is anticipated, a heavier-than-usual vote ensues, Saanich may even record a higher vote than Victoria did Thursday when 9,073 persons voted.

At Oak Bay at noon just six and one-half per cent of the eligible 6,800 voters had visited the polls, a scant 440. Returning officer A. D. Findlay had no comparison with earlier years but it is thought a normal vote was indicated. Oak Bay total votes are usually light. There is no vote for reeve, Reeve F. E. Norris having been returned last week by acclamation.

Esquimalt reported only 296 persons had cast ballots by noon—not quite 10 per cent of the municipality's 3,175 eligible voters.

This was roughly the same as the count at noon in the last reeveship election two years ago, returning officer James Erick stated. Final vote in 1953 saw 52 per cent of the registered voters cast ballots. Reeve A. C. Wurtele was re-elected at that time by a final count of 877 compared with 666 to his only opponent, Andrew Whisker.

Cause of the disturbance was not known. No serious injuries were reported.

Menzies Scores Decisive Win In Aussie Poll

Coalition Government Adds to Majority

MELBOURNE (CP)—Prime Minister Robert Menzies' right-wing coalition was returned to power tonight with a resounding election victory in the Australian House of Representatives.

When the vote counting stopped at midnight, the Liberal-Country party had 71 seats, a gain of seven; the Labor party, led by Herbert Evatt, had 43, there was one gain by an Independent and seven seats were doubtful.

Under Australia's preferential system of voting, complete results will not be known for day for the 122-seat House.

In the last Parliament of 121 members, the government had a seven-seat majority—64 to 57.

MAY RETAIN CONTROL

The result of the election for the Senate, also held today, was not clear but the Menzies landslide in the House indicated the Liberal-Country party coalition would probably retain control of the Senate.

It needed three of the five Senate seats in each state to hold a majority in the upper house.

A record 5,171,000 voters went to the polls in sweltering heat with temperatures in some parts of the country near 100.

"We have won a splendid victory," Menzies told a reporter. Evatt said the government's plan to "sneak back into power" at a premature election had succeeded—"temporarily."

He said an outstanding feature of the election was the tremendous aggregate vote for Labor, "much of which has been nullified by the manipulation of electoral boundaries which are operated in the interest of government parties."

Although Labor lost ground in Parliament, it polled a greater aggregate of votes.

Percentages were: Government parties, 45.6 per cent; Labor 46.2 per cent; Anti-Communist Labor 5.7 per cent; others 2.5 per cent.

Derby County, in third place in the Third Division North, was beaten by a Boston team that contained seven former Derby County players. Local supporters had dubbed the match "Derby County versus Derby County Old Boys."

League interest was confined today to the First and Second Divisions. In the First Division, Blackpool beat Everton, 4-0, to regain the leadership, replacing Manchester United which lost 3-2 at Portsmouth.

Blackpool now holds a one-point lead over United and Sunderland, which beat Sheffield United 3-2.

Soviet Backs Canada In UN 'Package Deal'

Seats for 18, Including Outer Mongolia, Held 'Only Way to End Deadlock'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Russia told the Security Council today that the only way to break the long UN membership deadlock is to accept a Canadian package deal which would bring 18 new countries into the world organization.

Soviet delegate Arkady Sobolev spoke as the 11-Nation Council faced a threat that Nationalist China would veto Outer Mongolia—one of the five Soviet satellites in the package.

The Soviet Union, Sobolev said, "firmly and resolutely stands for the admission of all 18 states without any exception whatsoever. No other way out of this situation exists, nor can any be found."

Nationalist China's T. F. Tsiang spoke briefly, but failed to repeat his privately-made threat that he would veto Outer Mongolia, if necessary, to keep it out. He said his delegation was willing to co-operate with other delegations, within the limits of the UN charter, to break the membership deadlock.

The Soviet delegate formally proposed that the council take up the 18 applications in the order of their receipt. This meant that Albania and Outer Mongolia would be voted upon first. Nationalist China previously announced it would demand priority for the non-Communist countries.

ASKS PROMPT ACTION

The council began its debate after hearing an appeal from its president, Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, for prompt and "positive" action on the membership applications.

"If failure to act was unjustified in the past," he said, "still less is it justified now."

Announcement of the expulsion signalled a victory for the former premier in a violent struggle for power between right and left-wing radicals on the eve of Jan. 2 French general election.

Mendes-France announced the expulsion at a meeting of the party executive committee, of which he is chairman. The reason he gave was that the men had refused orders to resign from the Rally of the Republican Left, a co-ordinating body of Radical and other centre-left political groups.

Mendes-France wanted his party to be free to appoint new members to the rally, whose Radical Socialist membership now is headed by his arch-opponent, caretaker Premier Edgar Faure.

Faure himself has already been expelled from the middle-of-the-road Radical Socialist party at Mendes-France's instigation for calling the January election in opposition to party sentiment.

Fare Hike Protest Leaves 40 Injured; 114 Face Charges

(BUP and AP Dispatches)

MONTREAL—The Montreal Transportation Commission today urged Municipal Judge Pascal Lachapelle to impose severe sentences on those convicted of wilful damage in Friday night's 12-hour transit riot in which 236 streetcars and buses were wrecked.

A veteran police officer said the hooliganism in which 40 persons were injured was the worst he had seen since the anti-conscription riots of 1917. The Maurice Richard hockey riots last March 17 were described as " tame" in comparison.

George Emery, transit commission lawyer, asked Judge Lachapelle to make an example of the hoodlums who took part in the protest against a 2½-cent fare increase. He said the maximum term for damaging railway property was 14 years in prison.

Emery said the riot cost the city $102,000 in damaged property and loss of revenue.

A total of 153 persons were arrested and appeared in the crowded courtroom today to face charges ranging from assaulting police officers to failing to move when told to do so by police.

Altogether, 52 persons pleaded guilty and 48 others maintained their innocence. Fourteen juveniles were remanded to Social Welfare court. The rest were released when charges were dropped when it was found they had no connection with the riot.

The accused appeared one at a time in a procession that lasted three hours.

The Times "Bread for the Hungry" fund to aid the children of Greece, India, and Korea now stands at $1,742.75. It represents gifts of from $1 to $100 from Victoria and Vancouver Island residents, rich and poor alike, who are willing to help.

The fund here is in aid of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, which has commitments in the three countries.

HOPE FOR TOTS

Contributors donations, therefore, will mean a new lease on life for tots in the earthquake-stricken sections of Greece, young victims of the horrors of war in Korea, and the children who know nothing but the teeming slums of India's huge cities.

Contributions may be mailed to the Times or delivered to either downtown or uptown offices of Victoria Press Ltd. Official receipts will be mailed from USC headquarters in Ottawa.

Additional help, though, has come from the Hudson's Bay Company, which today joined the Times in its fund-raising appeal by placing a collection receptacles at the information booth in its downtown store. The "Bay" will give receipts to those who wish them.

The Times fund will close Dec. 17.
